MANTELS

Which combine all the good qualities and all of the lesser ones are what we endeavor at all times to have. The designs are pretty, the material good, the finish most perfect, or less perfect, as the buyer may desire. By less perfect we mean less expensive. Some people do not want to pay as much as others. It's not every one who would buy a Mantel for $25, yet many would expect to pay more. You can choose which.

ALMY HAD FRIENDS

Who Rendered Him Aid at All Times.

A File of the Daily Papers Found in the Barn

Where He Had Been in Hiding for Three Weeks.

Letters Written by Him Mailed in Indiana.

Investigation Only Adds Sensation to the Terrible Crime Which Shocked the Whole United States.

Hanover, N. H., Aug. 27.—The state officials, who had charge of the capture and removal of Almy from Hanover, have all along been convinced, from suspicious circumstances which have developed in the case, that some accomplice has been assisting him to evade capture and supplying him with food and news of the pursuit.

Hitherto the presence of Almy in the Wheelock hotel, and the consequent excited state of the citizens have occupied the entire attention of the officers. But now that Almy is safely removed to a strong jail 60 miles away police attention is turned to the question of whether he had an accomplice or not.

It will be remembered that last Thursday, when Almy was made a prisoner at the Warden barn, the sheriff ordered the arrest of Leverett Gorham, a Swede, who worked about the place.

This was done because the state officials were convinced that an accomplice of the murderer was somewhere in the neighborhood.

Gorham was released the following day, there being no evidence upon which to hold him. Now, however, an effort will be made to find who assisted Almy.

Deputy Sheriff Corning said to the correspondent to-day that there was no doubt in his mind that Almy had received assistance, and that there was somebody in the neighborhood upon whom suspicion rested He declined, however, to name the person. Corning was out west when Almy was captured. He had gone to a small village in Indiana to hunt for him.

What sent Corning upon this quest was a letter signed "Frank C. Almy," which arrived here early in August. It was addressed to Sheriff Foster, of Hanover, made fun of his efforts to find the murderer and threatened him with death in case the writer came across him. This missive and two similar letters which had arrived from places in New England were submitted to experts in Boston and New York, together with specimens of Almy's handwriting. The experts all agree that the letters were unquestionably written by Almy. The question then was who had assisted him in having these letters mailed at such a distance from Hanover?

Again it is known that Almy, when secreted in Farmer Warden's barn, was kept thoroughly posted about the efforts which were being made to capture him. He was enabled to closely follow the movements of the detectives, and in some mysterious way learned exactly when it was safe for him to venture forth from his hiding-place. He was supplied with all the newspapers. Since his capture copies of New York and New England newspapers have been found in his hiding-place in the barn for nearly every day since the murder was committed. These he could not have obtained without assistance.

It was also utterly impossible for him to have been the author of the three threatening letters to Sheriff Foster unless he was co-operating with an outsider.

Who is this outsider? Various views are entertained on this subject, and the name of more than one official has been mentioned, but as yet no positive evidence has been secured upon which to warrant an arrest.

P. H. Whitcomb, publisher of the weekly newspaper in Hanover, said to the correspondent: "Those mysterious letters look as though some one was an accomplice of Almy, although not directly connected with the murder itself. Many circumstances can be explained in no other way."

Lawrence B. Currier, of Hanover, lately a member of the state legislature, said: "Almy's having been posted regarding the movements of the officers through the newspapers may not be so suspicious, for he might have stolen the newspapers from the houses which he entered in search of food. That letter from Indiana, however, points very strongly to his having had a confederate on the outside."

D. B. Russell, of the United States and Canada express here, said: "The letters were sent to some one well known to Almy, or Abbott, and then returned to the desired adress by that party. So far as I know, the general opinion in Hanover is that he received outside aid from some source."

G. W. Rand, one of the leading merchants of the town, believes that in no other way than by the aid of an accomplice could Almy have accomplished his plans so successfully.

Mr. Weston, of the firm of Storrs & Weston, said: "If the prisoner be Abbott, as now seems certain, there are without doubt some of his old pals left who would assist if in their power the man who was their leader years ago. Almy's statement that he regularly received the daily papers is almost an admission that he had an accomplice."

Henry Sanborn, proprietor of the billiard room which Almy frequented, said: "The letter received by Sheriff Foster from Indiana was, without doubt, in Almy's handwriting. Surely he did not go west to mail it and then return to Hanover. You mark my words, some one mailed that letter for him. As to the newspapers, however, I think he stole them when out on his foraging expeditions."

Prof. Parker was inclined to believe from the evidence that Almy had an accomplice. F. W. Davison, whose ladder Almy borrowed unknown to the owner when he entered the room Christie Warden had occupied in Prof. Pettrie's house, said that ever since Almy had been captured he felt that some one had kept the murderer posted.

John Fuller, the man whom Almy called for when he found himself discovered, believes that Almy must have had an accomplice.

"When called into the barn," said Mr. Fuller, "I asked Almy, out of curiosity, if anybody had aided him, and he said 'No.' But then you cannot believe all that he says."

Prof. Pettie said that unless the prisononer is Abbott he cannot think it possible that he had an accomplice.

John D. Bridgeman, of Hanover Centre, said: "If Almy had assistance, it was from a man of more than ordinary ability."

Prof. Campbell, although unwilling to admit that Almy has been assisted, said that he could not account for very many of the existing circumstances in any other way.

Other prominent citizens of Hanover who were seen believed that Almy had an accomplice, both after committing the murder and also in preparing for it."

OHIO STENOGRAPHERS.

Officers Selected—Columbus Chosen as the Next Place of Meeting.

Dayton, O., Aug. 27.—The Ohio Stenographers' association at its session yesterday continued the discussion on papers read Tuesday.

A proposition to change the by-laws so as to admit stenographers who can correctly write 100 words per minute was strongly opposed by those favoring the present test of 150 words per minute. The subject was referred to a committee to report upon at the next meeting.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, J. G. Pomerene, Cleveland; first vice president, Charles J. Hall, Dayton; second vice president, H. K. Sanker, Akron; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. S. Louise Patterson, Cleveland; librarian, Jerome B. Howard, Cincinnati; executive committee, Thomas J. Shauter, Cleveland; Mrs. Belle R. Norwood, Canton; W. R. Butherick, Akron. Columbus was selected as the place for the next meeting.

Thieving Canadian.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 27.—In yesterday's boodle investigation Mr. Langlier testified that $118,000 of the subsidy of the Bai Des Chaleurs railroad had been embezzled. He read a deposition of J. A. Taylor, a contractor, to that effect.

Slowly Coming In.

New York, Aug. 27.—The steamer Suevia, which was spoken with her propeller damaged, has been spoken again. She was 450 miles from New York, proceeding six knots an hour.

Cholera in Singapore.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—Several cases of cholera have occurred at Singapore.

Sixty deaths are reported among the passengers on a Chinese vessel.

Committed Suicide.

New York, Aug. 29.—Alfred H. Hildick, a well-known importer, committed suicide to-day by taking paris green at his office, No. 23 Murray street.

Found His Body.

Babylon, L. I., Aug. 27.—The body of Herbert Mapes, the athlete, drowned at Fire island Sunday, was found in the surf.

SENSATIONAL SHOOTING.

A Farmer Who Was Too Handy With His Gun.

He Fills a Neighbor's Boy Full of Shot Thinking That He Was Stealing Fruit.

Ravenna, O., Aug. 27.—A very sensational shooting affair in Suffield was reported to Prosecutor Phelps. On Monday evening about 9 o'clock two sons of William Youtz, of that place, started out hunting, taking their dog with them.

While crossing a field owned by Amos H. Saxe, they were fired upon and wounded. They managed to get to Saxe's house and asked him for aid and wanted to know why he did it. He at first refused to help them and denied doing the shooting.

The oldest of the boys has more than one hundred shot in him and will probably die. The boys are 16 and 18 years old respectively, and Saxe is one of the wealthiest farmers in the town. He says that he supposed they were after his fruit.

Natural Gas Vein.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The largest vein of natural gas ever struck at Sandy creek, Oswego county, was tapped at 8 o'clock this morning at a depth of 102 feet. The noise of the escaping gas can be heard for a distance of one mile. It blew the tools in all directions. The drillers fled. There are now nine live wells.

Baker Recovering.

Croton Landing, N. Y., Aug. 27.—I. Newton Baker, private secretary to Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, who was shot on Saturday, August 1, by Orville E. Anderson, has recovered sufficiently to be taken to the Catskill mountains. When leaving for the mountains he said he felt as well as ever, but that the bullet wound in his arm was somewhat painful.

Crops Injured.

London, Aug. 27.—Information from Ireland shows that the bad weather has caused injury to the grain crops. Harvesting in many parts has been suspended, and great distress is apprehended in some districts. Archbishop Walsh has instructed the Roman Catholic clergy of Ireland to pray for fine weather and to instruct their congregations to do likewise.

PILED UP IN A HEAP.

Miraculous Escape from Death in a Wreck.

A Freight Car in the Middle of a Train Capsizes With Serious Results.

Rush City, Minn., August 27.—The Grantsburg accommodation train on the St. Paul and Duluth road was wrecked about five miles this side of Grantsburg yesterday afternoon.

The train was about half an hour late and was thundering along at the rate of 40 miles an hour when a freight car jumped the track, turning completely over. The passenger coach at the rear was derailed and dashed into the ground about four feet.

The passengers, 20 in number, were thrown in all directions, and it is nothing short of a miracle that some were not killed. The following are the names of the injured:

A. Pompeny, St. Paul, both knees and ankles badly bruised and right arm seriously hurt.

W. G. Carley, St. Paul, left eye knocked nearly out, right arm wrenched and internal injuries.

E. P. Morehead, St. Paul, injured internally; serious.

Miss L. Lonquiar, St. Paul; Mrs. O. Kermack, Ironwood, Mich., and Mrs. Lelander, Ironwood, slightly injured.

All the passengers were more or less shaken up, but these are the only ones who needed medical assistance.

HELD FOR GRAND LARCENY.

A Minister Placed Under Arrest.

The Congregation Failed to Pay Him His Salary and He Took the Church Fixtures.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 27.—In the city court yesterday, the Rev. George Moore, pastor of the Colored Baptist church on Seventh street, had a preliminary trial, charged with stealing a bible, a clock and a chandelier from the church.

The parson admitted taking the articles but he said the bible belonged to him. As an excuse for taking the clock and chandelier he said the congregation had only given him 47 cents a month and he had to live. He was held over on a charge of grand larceny.

NAMING A JUDGE.

Enthusiastic Democrats Assemble in Defiance

For the Purpose of Selecting a Candidate

For the Second Sub-Division of the Third Judicial District of Ohio—Convention Notes.

Defiance, O., Aug. 27.—(Special)—The democrats of the second sub-division of the third judicial circuit met here in convention to-day for the purpose of nominating a candidate for common pleas judge. The sub-division is composed of the counties of Defiance, Paulding and Williams, and each was well represented.

The trains last night brought in many of the delegates and many more of them arrived this morning. The largest crowd came, perhaps, from Williams county, which sent a mass delegation.

There were but two avowed candidates before the convention, the present incumbent, Judge S. T. Sutphen, and B. F. Enos, both of Defiance.

Hon. T. B. Holland, of Paulding, who was a candidate, withdrew from the race a few days ago, leaving Defiance county with the two candidates.

Judge Sutphen has been on the bench in this sub-division seven years. When Judge Selwyn N. Owen, of Bryan, was elected to the supreme bench, Judge Bowersox was appointed to fill the vacancy. He served until 1884, when Judge Sutphen was elected to fill a term of two years. He was elected again in 1886, and really comes up now for his second full term.

During the years he has been on the bench he has given good satisfaction. Col. Enos' candidacy was based on the ground that Judge Sutphen had been in the office for two terms and ought to now step aside for another man.

The canvas of both these gentlemen has been conducted in a careful, systematic manner, but Sutphen has had the machine, and his friends last night predicted his nomination.

They claimed that he would have two-thirds of the delegates in the convention, although Col. Enos contradicted this.

The latter was confident also last night, and both men went to bed certain of the nomination, although, to a man up a tree, it looked as if Judge Sutphen had a long way the best of it.

The headquarters of Judge Sutphen were at the Crosby, and it was well filled all of last evening. The corridors presented a convention-like appearance, although both the excitement and interest of former big conventions in Defiance was lacking.

This is a great convention town, and some of the hottest fights in the state of Ohio have occurred here. In the days when Hon. W. D. Hill was in his prime, and even down to the congressional conventions of three and one year ago, when Hon. G. M. Saltsgaber and Hon. D. D. Donavan were nominated in the order named, it was a treat to attend a convention in old democratic Defiance.

The contests were heated and the enthusiastic adherents of candidates would have convinced a political neophyte that a war was about to be precipitated upon the country.

This aspect was lacking last night to a large degree, but still much more than the usual interest was manifested.

CALLED TO ORDER.

New Candidates Enter the Field at the Last Moment.

Defiance, O., Aug. 27.—(Special)—During the night a number of new candidates were sprung.

Henry W. Newbegin and B. B. Kingsbury, of Defiance, and John W. Nelson, of Bryan, were trotted into the ring by their friends.

It was understood this morning that Williams county would press Nelson's claims and insist on his nomination.

Judge Sutphen, however, was confident that he would be nominated on the first ballot.

Sutphen's friends made a determined effort to induce Nelson to withdraw and thus leave the field between the Defiance aspirants.

Williams county claims that as Defiance was divided it had no right to insist on the two outside counties remaining out of the fight.

Chairman John C. Winn, of the judicial central committee, called the convention to order at 10:30 o'clock, and announced that W. H. Hubbard had been selected as temporary chairman, and the democratic editors in the three counties temporary secretaries.

The court room was well filled, and the convention is the largest that has been held here since the congressional convention which nominated Donovan last year.

On taking the chair Mr. Hubbard said that he was always proud of the honor of presiding over a democratic convention.

The getting in line for the battle with our ancient enemies—the republican party—and the advancement of the old democratic banner to the front, was a work which ought to thrill the soul of every democrat in this campaign.

"We have a standard bearer at the head of the state ticket, one of the most gallant fighters in the democratic party—a man who has never been defeated and please God never will be."

Mr. Hubbard's brief but earnest speech was received with great enthusiasm and interrupted with cheers.

The following committees were announced:

Credentials: Defiance—M. B. Gorman; Paulding—F. L. Boshon; Williams—R. L. Starr.

Permanent organization: Defiance—H. G. Baker; Paulding—Tom Regean; Williams—A. C. Marshall.

Resolutions: Defiance—Henry Hurd; Paulding—A. N. Wiseman; Williams—Robt. N. Patterson.

After announcing the meeting places of the respective committees the convention adjourned to 1:30 o'clock.

During the Recess.

During the noon recess Williams county caucussed and resolved not to present Mr. Nelson's name to the convention unless a deadlock ensued.

The mass delegation passed a resolution giving the solid vote of the county to Judge Sutphen.

There were several Enos men in the delegation who insisted that they had a right to vote for whom they pleased, and after a somewhat heated discussion the resolution was reconsidered, through the efforts of Bob Patterson, Tom Emery and others.

It became evident at 1 o'clock that nothing short of amiracle could prevent the nomination of Judge Sutphen on the first ballot, and Enos conceded his defeat. The delegation here from Williams county is the largest that ever attended a convention outside of that county.

Afternoon Session.

The convention was called to order promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

The court room was packed with delegates and spectators and it was some minutes before Chairman Hubbard could proceed.

The report of the committee on credentials was called for and stated that no contests had been found.

The committee on permanent organization and rules reported that the temporary organization be made permanent and that the usual rules prevail.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

The Resolutions.

"We, the democracy, of the second sub-division of the third judicial district in conventon assembled, approve of the able administration of Governor James E. Campbell.

"We endorse the platform adopted and the ticket nominated at the state convention at Cleveland and pledge to both our hearty support."

The following district committee was selected:

Defiance, M. B. Gorman; Paulding, R. L. McGee; Williams, James W. Hawkins.

Mr. Starr, of Williams county, was called to the chair, and when Defiance county was called, Mr. W. H. Hubbard announced the name of Judge Silas T. Sutphen, the present incumbent.

Mr. Hubbard said that his candidate was well known and had been an upright and conscientious jurist.

"He has been impartial in all of his decisions and rulings and ought to have a re-nomination."

Baldwin Herzer presented the name of B. F. Enos, of Defiance, and said that the latter had begun life as a poor boy, and had climbed the ladder until he stood at the top of the Defiance county bar, and had always been a hard working, industrious democrat.

Paulding county presented no candidate, and a delegate announced that the county was all for Sutphen.

When Williams was reached Hon. Thomas Emery seconded the announcement of Judge Sutphen in an eloquent speech.

The first ballot was ordered.

Sutphen Nominated.

As was predicted Williams county reconsidered the gag rule, resolved at the morning caucus and allowed members to vote for whom they pleased.

The first ballot resulted as follows:

	Sutphen.	Enos.
Defiance	45½	23½
Paulding	54½	5½
Williams	58½	2½
Total	158½	31½

On motion of Baldwin Herzer the nomination of Judge Sutphen was made unanimous.

A committee consisting of H. P. Miller, N. R. Hysell and O. D. Willett was appointed to escort the nominee to the hall.

FOR GILMOUR'S PLACE.

Rumors That Fr. Horstmann is the Man.

A Brief Sketch of the Person Who it is Believed Will Be Bishop of Cleveland.

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—(Special)—Information from Philadelphia indicates that Rev. Dr. Ignatius Horstmann, of that city, will be selected as the sucessor of the late Bishop Gilmour. A telegram from Philadelphia says:

"Dr. Horstmann is one of the noted men of the Catholic church in the east. Rev. Dr. Horstmann is one of the most popular priests in this, his native ctiy. Reared in Southwark, he was educated in the public schools and afterward at Overbrook, and he is now about 48 years of age.

He was one of that group of brilliant young men in which the late Francis O'Neil of St. James, West Philadelphia, was conspicuous, who were closely allied to the late Archbishop Wood. The archbishop exercised over each a fatherly supervision, and all proved brilliant workers in the religious career they had wedded.

Father Horstmann when quite young became the rector of St. Mary, on Fourth street, above Spruce, and was held in the highest esteem by the members of the parish, who were loath to part with their pastor after his accession to the chancellorship of the diocese.

This occurred when Archbishop Ryan came to Philadelphia after the death of Archbishop Wood. He appointed Dr. Horstmann as chancellor and the wisdom of the appointment has been demonstrated by the fraternal relations existing among the clergy throughout the diocese. In addition to his pastoral duties Dr. Horstmann has frequently aided in religious musical services, being a fine musician.

He was one of the original members of the choir of priests and seminarians which produced Cacidinis mass. This was rendered upon the services incident to the death of Pope Pius IX, and has been repeated upon many occasions. As a pulpit orator Dr. Horstmann is excelled by but few.

In an administrative capacity he has proved his value as the parish rector at St. Mary and the diocesan secretary at the cathedral. In physique few men possess a more commanding figure, being about six feet three inches in height.

JUDGE DICKINSON.

Resolutions Passed by the Bar of His County.

A Tribute to the Memory of the Departed from the Pen of Gen. Hayes.

Fremont, O., Aug. 27.—(Special)—At a meeting of the Sandusky County Bar association, held at R. P. Buckland's law office, this morning, suitable resolutions were passed concerning the death of Hon. E. F. Dickinson. This association will attend the funeral Sunday afternoon in a body.

The following was submitted by Gen. Rutherford B. Hayes:

"Gentlemen: Judge Dickinson was one of the superior men. He was so devoid of ambition, of pretension, perhaps we shall also think of energy, that he was sure to be overlooked, if not underrated as a man of ability.

"He had a large, sound brain, a warm, manly heart, a valid judgment, a charitable, friendly and generous disposition.

"He was well educated in the best sense of the word. He was useful and reliable. The plain people understood and loved him. He was a model probate judge.

"He was a fit advisor and a ready and willing helper of all who needed help. He will be greatly missed in Sandusky county, and his professional brethren do well to manifest and record their esteem and affection for him.

"If it occurs to anyone to suggest that he did not make all that was possible of his powers, that he was the friend of everybody, the enemy to himself only, we can reply, 'let him who is without personal witnesses cast the first stone.'

"He always judged gently of others; let none but fraternal words be spoken of him.

"He is safe now in the care of 'the supreme power, the supreme wisdom and the supreme love.'"

KILLED AT TECUMSEH.

A Defiance Young Lady Meets a Sudden Death.

Defiance, O., Aug. 27.—(Special)—Defiance people were startled this morning upon receipt of a telegram from Tecumseh, Mich., announcing that Miss Beatrice Travis had been instantly killed in a runaway accident at that place.

Miss Travis was one of the belles of the city, a daughter of F. E. Travis, and very popular with everybody.

She was visiting friends at Tecumseh and her death was announced to her parents, who are away from here, by telegraph.

Her remains will be brought here for interment.

DANGEROUS WASHOUTS.

The Wabash Road Fighting the Missouri River.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—The Wabash railroad is having a hard fight with the Missuri river at Missouri City, just below here.

The road had just got the previous washout repaired and was ready to run trains when there came another and more extensive break in the bank which swept away 200 feet of the track and a house which stood near the depot.

Government engineers are on the spot to see if they can do anything to stop the gradual washout which threatens to destroy Missouri City unless prompt action is taken.

Alliance Leaders Fighting.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 27.—The Times-Union special from Durant, Mississippi, states that in a personal encounter between Lecturer McAllister and Editor McCune, representing the two alliance factions, McAllister severely punished McCune.

The trouble grew out of alliance matters. McCune asserted that McAllister had sold the alliance to Wall street and that he had lied about another matter in connection with McCune's personal conduct.

Daughters of Liberty.

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 27.—The national convention of the Daughters of Liberty has elected S. R. Stevens, a bank clerk of Marlboro, Mass., a national councillor; A. E. Burkitt of Waterbury vice councillor. All the other minor officers elected were eastern ladies.

"Leather Breeches" Battery.

Ravena, O., Aug. 27.—The annual reunion of Battery I. O. V. L. A., known in the service as the "Leather Breeches Battery," was held here yesterday. A number were present from away and a very enjoyable time was had.

Two New Clubs.

Younstown, O., Aug. 27.—F. H. Phillips, of the republican state league, organized a republican club at Washingtonville Monday, and one at Lowellville last evening.

Suicide at 86.

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 37.—Rufus Lawton, an old man aged 86, committed suicide at Churchtown yesterday by hanging. Despondency was the cause.

Charged With Murder.

New York, Aug. 27.—A negro named Alfred Johnston was arrested at Stanhope, N. J., to-day, for the murder of Theodore Freeze, of Brooklyn, who was killed near Hope, N. J., Sunday night two weeks ago.

CHARGES OF FRAUD MADE.

J. C. Faurot Trying to Get His Bonds.

An Interesting Lawsuit Filed in New York With Thousands at Stake.

New York, August 27.—Jas. C. Faurot, one of the wealthiest citizens of Lima, O., and president of the Lima national bank, has just begun a suit in the Supreme court to recover possession of stocks, bonds and other properties of three Mexican railway corporations valued at $700,000.

The suit is against Thomas McManus, Jno. W. Young, Louis Huller, George H. Sisson, George S. Bixby, the Sonora, Sinaloa & Chihuahua railway and Development company, the Deming, Sierra Madre & Pacific railway company, and the Mexican railway development company. Each railway company was organized with a capital stock of $1,000,000 to construct railways in Mexico. Huller, in November, 1887, secured from the Mexican government grants for the construction and operation of certain railroad and telegraph lines in Mexico.

Mr. Faurot says that he loaned these corporations, and also Huller and Sisson, large sums of money—over $200,000. Sisson and Huller owned most of the stock of the company, and several years ago Faurot purchased from them a half interest in the stocks and bonds, so that they were left with a quarter interest in the three corporations.

After he had acquired this interest Mr. Faurot avers that the concessions for the building of the roads were transferred to McManus for debts to him aggregating $372,594.22. This transfer, he asserts, was fraudulent and void, because he was never notified of it, although he was the largest holder of stock and bonds.

The Mexican Northern Pacific railway company was then organized by Young to construct the three railroads, and upon his representations that he was worth $2,500,000, had influential business men behind him and could secure the wealth of English capitalists for the work, he gained possession of all the stock and bonds of Mr. Faurot in the three companies.

Mr. Faurot declares that Young's representations were false and that instead of being a millionaire he is insolvent. He has refused to deliver the stocks and bonds back to Mr. Faurot, and now has a controlling power in the three corporations and is charged with endeavoring to sell the stocks, bonds and property of the railway companies to English capitalists for a large sum and for his own benefit.

The purpose of this suit is to prevent any sale or other disposition of the bonds and stocks until Mr. Faurot can establish his ownership to them.

UNION VETERAN UNION.

Hon. S. S. Yoder Chosen Commander-in-Chief.

A Service Pension Bill Favored and Also Monuments to the Unknown Dead in the South.

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—At yesterday's session of the national encampment of the Union Veterans' Union, resolutions were adopted favoring a service pension bill to approach nearly the one in the German army; the erection of a monument to the unknown union dead in every southern state; commending the service of Commander Clark for the good of the organization; condemning foreigners not naturalized holding offices, giving the 30th day of May the proper observance and asking that federal appointments be given to old soldiers and the widows and orphans of soldiers.

The election of a commander-in-chief occurred in the afternoon, Hon. S. S. Yoder, of the Department of the Potomac, being chosen. He received 83 votes, John H. Roberts, of Massachusetts, 29 and Gen. O. A. Jaynes, of Ohio, 47.

Have Sailed for Home.

Liverpool, Aug. 27.—Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Russell Harrison, the daughter and daughter-in-law of President Harrison, sailed for New York on the White Star steamer Majestic.

Cricket Match.

Cottage City, Mass., Aug. 27.—The cricket match to-day between the Manhattans and the Mystics resulted in a victory for the former, 133 to 35.

Making a Cabinet.

New York, Aug. 27.—A Washington special to the Post says: It is believed ex-Gov. Cheney will be Secretary Proctor's successor in the cabinet.

The Last Man Gone.

London, Aug. 27.—The only surviving officer of the battle of Waterloo, General Whichcote, died to-day.

AFFAIRS ACROSS THE DEEP

Conservatives Claim Another Victory.

Funny Incidents Recorded Among the Foreigners.

The Chinese Government Excited Over the Statement That Corea Has Agreed to Russian Protectorate.

London, Aug. 27.—The conservatives claim that they have reason to congratulate themselves on the result of the Lewisham election. While it is true that Viscount Lewisham carried the borough by good majorities in 1885 and 1886, yet Lewisham has for many years been closely attached to the Darmouth family, so that no real test of strength could be had with a member of that family as a candidate.

Therefore, Wednesday's election was the first real trial of strength between the parties or existing issues.

Mr. Gladstone's earnest advocacy of the liberal candidate, Mr. Warmington, also put both parties on their metal.

The liberals put forward prominently the issue of home rule for Ireland.

Penn, the conservative, declared himself in favor of the government's policy in Ireland, and advocated checking the immigration of foreign paupers.

On these and other issues the contest was fought. The vote showed a considerable increase both of conservatives and liberals, but the former held their own by about 1,500 majority.

A Vienna dispatch tells some funny incidents connected with the new Magyar national society, recently founded at Budapesth. The society is purely Hungarian, and its rules provide that its members shall buy no German newspapers published in Hungary, patronize no German shops, and frequent no hotels, restaurants or cafes, where there are German waiters, or where the bills of fare and notices to the public are in any but the Magyar language.

The fact is the Germans control the best hotels and restaurants in Budapesth, and they in turn are boycotting the members of the society, when, driven by hunger for a good dinner, they forget the rules and seek a German restaurant.

Several of the society have been going with their faces unshaven for days because the leading barber shops refuse to discharge their German employes, and a good shave can be got nowhere else. The society seems likely to fall to pieces because its principles are too difficult of practice.

A letter from Shanghai says that the Chinese government is very much excited over the report that Corea has agreed to a Russian protectorate.

Corea has always been claimed by China as a dependency, and tribute is required, and more or less regularly paid.

The Coreans, however, dislike the Chinese yoke and have always been restive under it.

Surprise is expressed among foreign residents at Shanghai that Russia should take such a step, if it has been taken, so likely to provoke a conflict with China. This Russia has endeavored heretofore to avoid, and has surrendered considerable territory in order to keep at peace with her Asiatic neighbor. It is said that Russia wants Corea as a depot for naval operations better situated than the barren northeastern shores of Russia in Asia.

The British merchant ships which were put to inconvenience and somewhat damaged during the fighting in Pisagua, Chili, have prepared their claims for damages for presentation to the Chilian government. The vessels claim to have been made depots of refuge for thousands of non-combatants during a period in some instances, of six weeks. One vessel, the Strathearn, had pigs, goats, fowl and household furniture on board, as well as human beings.

A letter from Capetown says that Germans in Damaraland are thoroughly sick of their attempt to settle that part of Africa, and that King Kamaharero says they must go home. The king has just been awakened to the idea that the Germans got the best of the treaty which he signed when drunk, giving them his country for a few trinkets. The Capetown government has invited King Kamaharero to visit Capetown.

A Munich dispatch emphatically denies that Prince Bismarck shows any signs of bad health. It is said he was never more vigorous.

WAR BULLETIN.

A Chilian Battle in Which the Insurgents Were Defeated.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The following cablegram, dated Valparaiso, Chili, August 26, was received by Senor Pazano, the Chilian minister at Washington this morning:

"On the 25th the insurgent army was completely defeated in Vina Del Mar. A division of the Chilian government army cut off their retreat to the ships and obligeed them to unconditionally surrender. All the country applauds the valor and skill of the government army. (Signed) M. A. Aldunate, minister of foreign Affairs, Chili."

Dr. L. C. Draper Dead.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 27.—Dr. L. C. Draper, the noted historian, died in this city at 9:30 last night. Dr. Draper suffered a stroke of paralysis a week ago last Sunday, since which time he did not rally. He had been in a comatose state until yesterday, when he became entirely unconscious. His demise will be mourned by historical students throughout the country.

BAD BLOW FOR DULUTH.

West Superior Gathering in Her Trade.

The Hard Wheat Market Will Go to the New City Which Means Much for the Town.

West Superior, Wis., Aug. 27.—By an arrangement made yesterday by the Messrs. Walsh Hannon and Stottel, railroad commissioners, of North Dakota, this city, will become one of the greatest hard wheat markets in the world.

Heretofore the wheat received and shipped from here has been subject to the Duluth board of trade and quoted as a part of Duluth stock.

In a conference here yesterday arrangements were concluded to place on an active footing the west Superior board of trade to establish wheat grades in compliance with North Dakota inspection laws and in return the commissioners give assurance that all exports of wheat will be shipped here for market.

President Hill of the Great Northern, agrees to to put his elevators, with a capacity of 4,000,000 bushels, under the new inspection, and Sawyer, who has elevators of 4,500,000 capacity here, will do the same thing.

AMERICAN TIN PLATE.

There is None Made in America.

A Knock-Down Argument for Republicans.

The Scheming Politicians are Given a Black Eye by the National Provisioner.

Detroit, Aug. 27.—The Free Press has the following interesting story, which shows the falsity of the claim of Major McKinley that American tin plate was being manufactured in this country.

The impression seems to prevail in certain quarters that the question whether we have any such thing as "American tin plate," is answered by the appearance at Niles, O., of an arch of tin bearing the label "American." A shadow is cast, however, over the rose tinted light which the arch in question has thrown on our progress in manufactures. In the plainest of prosaic ways the National Provisioner of New York has been investigating the question referred to and the conclusion it has reached is that in spite of the arch and kindred delusions there really is as yet no American tin plate.

The Provisioner is not a political sheet or a doctrinaire. It is published in the interest of the packers and provision and meat dealers and indirectly in the interests of those who share in the prosperity of those dealers, that is of everybody who consumes provisions.

The patrons of the Provisioner are large consumers of tin plate in the form of cans, and the paper has therefore undertaken on their behalf to ascertain whether there is really any tin plate manufactured in this country or not.

It has done this as an advocate of the use of American tin plate providing it is not inferior to the imported article; and its investigation has been, therefore, of a character which believers in the "arch" must concede to be disinterested.

The researches of the Provisioner were confined to Philadelphia, from whence came the strongest pretenses that tin plate is made in this country; and the statement it makes after full investigation is that "from positive knowledge of the facts, and beyond any question of doubt, there is no tin plate mill in Philadelphia, and consequently no American tin plate is made there."

The character of the hoax which is being played on the American people in this matter is pretty clearly disclosed by an interview which the representative of the Provisioner had with the N. & G. Taylor company of Philadelphia, which has been so widely exploited as manufacturing "American tin plate." The interview began as follows:

Q.—"Will you permit me to go through your tin plate works?"

A.—"We are sorry, but we cannot permit any one to go through."

Q.—"For what reason?"

A.—"We have made it a rule not to let any one do so since a Brooklyn firm sent some one here who went through our works and is now about to start a tin plate mill here."

Q.—"I am not in the tin plate business, I am not interested in it, except that I want to find out, for the National Provisioner, whether you make bright tin plate for canning purposes."

A.—"We are sorry that we cannot let you see the works now. Perhaps we shall be able to in a few months."

Q.—"But the process of making tin plate is no secret. It has been charged that you were only dipping plates, and you deny this. Why do you not let me see how you make the plate, and thus justify your assertions?"

A.—"It is a matter of principle with us not to show our works.

Q.—"Will you, then, answer a few questions on the subject?"

A.—"Yes, certainly."

Q.—"Have you any bars of pig iron or pig steel on hand?"

A.—"No, we do not buy any."

Q.—"Do you not roll any bars in large sheets?"

A.—"No, we buy the black sheets."

The representatives of the Provisioner then detailed the process of making tin plate in Wales, beginning with the rolling of the bars and ending with the boxing, and asked if that was not the process of making tin plate as acknowledged by the leading men in the business. The answer was in the affirmative and the interview proceeded:

Q.—"Where do you commence? Do you anneal your sheets?"

A.—"We take the black sheets and pickle them, then dip them."

Q.—"But that is not making tin plate, is it?"

A.—"Of course; what do you call it?"

Q.—"I call it merely dipping other people's plate, as had been said right along that you do. Who is making your black sheets?"

A.—"They are made in Pennsylvania."

Q.—"Who is making them for you?"

A.—"It would be poor taste for me to answer that question."

Q.—"Will you show me an invoice?"

A.—"I cannot do so at present."

Q.—"Can you tell me the number of tons of American steel or iron sheets that you have purchased and received?"

A.—"I would not say that."

Q.—"You stated in your letter to us that you had a shipment of American tin on the road."

A.—"Yes, sir."

Q.—"Where does that come from?"

A.—"From California."

Q.—"Can you show me the invoice of the American pig tin on the road?"

A.—"No, sir; it is not here yet."

Q.—"When was it shipped?"

A.—"On the 14th."

Q.—"Have you any bill of lading, or any other document to prove this shipment?"

A.—"We have not, except a telegram saying that it was shipped."

Q.—"Where from?"

A.—"From San Diego, Cal."

Q.—"Have you no previous invoice to show?"

A.—"No, sir."

Q.—"Have you ever received any American pig tin before you ordered this shipment?"

A.—"No, we have not."

Q.—"How many men do you employ in your mill?"

A.—"Seven men and six boys."

Q.—"Are they all Americans?"

A.—"They are."

Q.—"American born?"

A.—"Some are not."

Q.—"When were they naturalized?"

A.—"The last one in October, 1887."

Q.—"How large a space does your mill occupy?"

A.—"I think 60x30 feet."

Q.—"How many boxes of canning tin can you turn out per day in size 14x20 inches?"

A.—"Fifty."

Q.—"How many in size 10x20 inches, and how many roofing plates 20x28 inches?"

A.—"All told, roofing and canning plates, we can turn out about fifty boxes per day."

From all this it will be seen that the alleged "manufacturers" were far less anxious to show that they are making tin plate than the republican politicians are.

The Provisioner subsequently interviewed three of the leading tin plate houses in Philadelphia, all of whom assured the representative that the dipping of tin plates was no new industry, and there was no such thing as a tin plate works in the country. In closing the Provisioner says:

We have investigated the machinery required and the amount needed to establish a tin plate mill or factory in this country, and we find that it will probably take at least a year's slow and careful construction for the machinery, furnaces, buildings, etc., and an expenditure of about $150,000 to $200,000 to establish a tin plate mill which is large enough to make tin plates in commercial quantities, and in quality equal to the imported goods, and with any possibility of competing in prices. Whatever is done at present in this line is either done for political effect or for advertising rather than for business purposes. No tin plate for canning purposes is made in this country; whatever is used is imported, and of poor quality at that. While the large packers may derive some benefit from the "drawback" allowed on exported tin cans, and while the foreign consumers may thus enjoy an advantage, the American people, and principally the workingmen and farmers, have to bear the brunt of the protection which they enjoy, and pay the taxes on tin plate when buying canned goods, while none is made in this country at present or can be made for some time. It is well known that the duty on tin plate was consented to in the house only by a small majority, and we have hopes and assurances that one of the first duties and tasks of the next congress will be to amend the McKinley act so that the duty on tin plate is removed. It is one of the most onerous provisions of the whole law, and surely the most hurtful to the provision trade.

Keystone Investigation.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—The legislative investigating committee met this morning in the state treasury department and proceeded at once to the examination of the returns of the county treasurers and the sworn statements of the cashiers of the several banks. They will be occupied the remainder of the day in the investigation of the books of the treasury department.

Change of Officers.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The state department is informed that President Balmaceda of Chili has removed F. A. Beclan as Chilian consul general at New York and appointed Charles R. Flint to fill the vacancy. Mr. Beclan has represented Chili at New York for 26 years. Sympathy with the revolutionists is given as the reason for Mr. Beclan's removal.

The War Scare.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—The bourse here became depressed yesterday because of the speech delivered by the kaiser at Merzburg on Monday. The German press comments very anxiously upon the speech in which the kaiser, among other things, said: "We all hope for peace, and should war break out it will not be our fault."

They Return Thanks.

Berne, Aug. 27.—The Swiss federal council has thanked the American and other consuls for their congratulations on the sixth centennial of Swiss independence and has ordered commemorative medals distributed among the consuls.

THE LEAGUE WANTED ALL,

And the Association Kicked Vigorously.

Stovy, Bierbauer and Kelley the Rocks Upon Which the Peace Conference Split.

Washington, Aug. 27.—(Special)—Zack Phelps gave a United Press reporter the entire situation of affairs. He said that upon an invitation extended them from the league people his committee came to Washington to meet the latter in conference and adjust their differences. The meeting was to be confidential, but the league men had broken faith and given out their side of the story and he felt justified in making a statement in behalf of the association.

"We made three propositions to the league men," said Mr. Phelps. "First that the Bierbauer and Stovey decisions should be reversed. The league men admitted that the decisions were wrong and an imposition on the association people. Second that all the contract jumpers should be disciplined in some way so that confidence could be established. Third that the association could maintain its interests in the cities where the two organizations had clubs—the league having the same right with its clubs. The association people made a proposition to the league to place clubs in Chicago and Brooklyn and the league in return to place clubs in Baltimore and St. Louis.

"The league," continued Mr. Phelps, "made two propositions to us, one to formulate a plan to make war on star players who are now receiving high salaries for their services, the association to back them in this move and the other to stop the war between the two associations and shake hands.

"These propositions were to be acted upon at the meeting here, but the announcement at the meeting last night that Kelly had jumped his contract and gone over to the league and the refusal of the league people to guarantee his return to the association, stopped all business at once and what promised to be a settlement of affairs was knocked into a cocked hat by the only 'Kel.'

"We could not in justice to ourselves submit to such treatment, nor could we maintain our present good standing with the people. The association came here to act in good faith but the action of the league's representative was such that we could hold no further conference with him."

Mr. Phelps added that the outlook for another peace meeting is very gloomy indeed and the only thing to expect is war throughout the season. The association can, however, he said, well hold its own in the fight as it has five paying cities where the league has only two.

President Byrne of the Brooklyn club and one of the league's committee had little to say in regard to the break in the peace negotiations. The association men he said, agreed to meet us this morning but failed to do so, sending us a letter stating that they would not renew the conference of last night.

TO INVADE THE SOUTH.

Knights of the Cork to Take a Long Journey.

A Minstrel Show to Please the Whims of the People of Africa.

Washington, Aug. 27.—(Special)—A company of negro minstrels will sail Saturday from New York for Africa. The troupe will go by the Guion liner Wisconsin to London, and then take passage for Cape Town, South Africa.

Luscombe Seavelle, of London, owns all the playhouses of South Africa. He has written several operas and some poetry. His opera "Estrella" was holding the boards at the time the Standard theater was burned, six or seven years ago. Seavelle also wrote some poetical verses on "The Dawn of Death," which were heavy enough for the London Times to publish.

Manager Seavelle visited New York some weeks ago and signed the minstrel company. It is made up of a number of "artists," and will be known by the modest title of Luscombe Seavelle's Mammoth United States Minstrel company. It will play exclusively in South Africa, and the contracts run for a year.

The American representative of the company is William Blakeney. He visited South Africa some years ago under Mr. Seavelle's management. Blakeney will accompany the troupe this year as leader of the orchestra.

A. J. Talbott will be stage manager and hold down one "end." Talbott is very well known about New York, and does a stump speech that is said to be funny. He has been with McIntyre and Heath of late.

Jimmy Griffin will be the second end man and do other funny things besides. This is the original "Jimmy," of Griffin and Rice.

Beattie and Bentley, a team of 'grotesque artists," have also been signed, as well as Frank Casey. John Robinson will act as interlocutor. Ed Gooding and Howe and Doyle may also go.

These are the leading members of the company from America. The rest will be picked up in London.

The minstrels will open at Cape Town October 1. The bookings cover the greater part of South Africa. From Cape Town the route will be to Elizabeth, then to King William's Town and to Pretremaritzberg.

The rest of the trip will be chiefly by ox wagons to Johannesberg and Kimberly where the diamond mines lie, and then northward into the gold regions of the Transvaal to Praetoria. The company will then work southward back to Cape Town, crossing the Snewberg mountains.

The first season will extend over 26 weeks and the second over the same period. The country may be compared to California in the early days, and the advent of an American minstrel company may well be expected to create a profitable sensation.

FIXING UP HIS CABINET.

Harrison Selecting Proctor's Successor.

Believed That ex-Gov. Cheney is the Man.

Reasons Why Alger Could Not Accept—Policy Will Guide in the Selection.

Washington, August 27.—It is not regarded as likely that Secretary Proctor will retire from the cabinet before November, when he will receive his appointment to the senate. Therefore, the appointment of his successor in the cabinet may not be looked for until that time.

There are several candidates prominently spoken of and the names of many who are thought to be available are being discussed in connection with the secretaryship of war. There is very little politics in the war department itself, but it is thought to be likely that in filling the vacancy Mr. Harrison will have due regard for the influence of the appointment upon his prospects of renomination.

If Alger would accept the place it is probable that the president would not think to go any further, but it is not believed that General Alger would accept any favor at the hands of this administration which might put him under obligations to Mr. Harrison in the next national convention. General Alger's friends say that he will not himself be a candidate for the presidency, but they rather intimate that he would be willing to take second place on the ticket with Mr. Blaine.

He is avowedly in favor of the nomination of Mr. Blaine, and is credited with being active in trying to bring that result about.

Unless the public is misinformed as to his sentiments with relation to the administration, it places him out of the range to succeed Secretary Proctor.

General Veasey has been spoken of for the appointment for some time, probably oftener than any other, but there seems to be considerable doubt about his selection.

Senator Hawley is mentioned also as a possibility. The president, however, would probably be very reluctant to take any one from the senate at this time. There is now a very slim majority of stalwart republicans in that body. A change of one or two votes there might enable the silver men to pass a free coinage bill over the president's veto.

It is said that Hawley will probably not expect another term in the senate, and he might be willing to resign to take a cabinet position, but he cannot well be spared from congress at this time.

Ex-Senator Blair is spoken of also.

The friends of Assistant Secretary Grant say that his selection is far from impossible. He has made a good officer, as a soldier is very familiar with military affairs, and knows the working of the department well, having been acting secretary most of the time since his appointment as assistant secretary.

The selection regarded as most probable by those who have been particularly interested in the discussion since Mr. Proctor's retirement was first spoken of is that of ex-Governor Cheney, of New Hampshire.

Governor Cheney and Mr. Harrison are warm friends. Mr. Harrison offered him the same position just before the cabinet was formed. He did not then feel inclined to accept it, but favored the selection of Proctor, whom the president had already about determined to give some place in the cabinet. It is now thought that Governor Cheney would accept the appointment, and there are political reasons why the friends of Mr. Harrison in New Hampshire and in other parts of New England desire his appointment.

The Gallenger element in New Hampshire is fighting to send an anti-Harrison delegation to the national convention, and it is believed that the appointment of Governor Cheney would strengthen the hands of the Harrison men. Senator Chandler is very anxious that this selection should be made and Mr. Harrison's personal admiration and friendship for the governor would naturally prompt his appointment, all things being equal.

PRISON AND DEATH ALIKE.

A Convict's Desperate Attempt at Suicide.

After Trying to Drown Himself in the Fountain He Slashes Himself With a Knife.

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—A desperate attempt at suicide was made at the penitentiary yesterday. James Mack, a four-year man from Cuyahoga county, sent up for the crime of robbery, tried to kill himself in a most peculiar way.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock Mack was seen walking around the idle-house. Suddenly and without warning he made for the fountain in the prison yard, near the deputy's office. There were several of the prisoners about, but before he could be prevented he sprang into the basin.

In a trice two or three of the prisoners seized him, and he was carried struggling with the fury of a mad man to the state shop, where it was intended to give him a change of clothes.

While getting the clothes from him the infuriated man seized a case knife he had taken from the dining room and concealed in his pocket, and deliberately slashed his left arm 13 times before the horrified attendants could take it from him.

He was carried to the hospital, where Dr. Parker dressed his wounds. Mack was paroled May 28, 1889, and was received for a violation of his parole June 9, 1890.

Veterans' Reunion.

Alliance, O., Aug. 27.—The eleventh annual reunion of the Ohio Volunteer infantry was held here yesterday. The address of welcome was given by Major Stillwell, and responded to by Lieut. J. J. Clark, of Canton. Prayer was offered by Chaplain March. Large delegations were here from neighboring towns.

WILL FORCE THE FIGHT.

Balmaceda to Make an Attack To-day.

A Bold Dash to be Made Against the Enemy With the Hope of Ending the War.

New York, Aug. 27.—The Herald's Valparaiso dispatch this morning says President Balmaceda will probably attack the insurgent army this morning.

It is impossible to learn the position and movements of the insurgent forces, but the report that they have taken up a strong position on the hills above the race course at Vina Del Mar is probably true.

It is thought that they have received reinforcements. Balmaceda in the meantime has lost no time in strengthening his position.

Reinforcements have been constantly arriving until now he has within reach fully 20,000 armed men. From the condition of affairs here, and the movement of troops, it is generally believed that Balmaceda will attack the revolutionary army in force to-day and endeavor to end the war, so far as it can be done by a victory or defeat in front of Valparaiso.

YELLOW FEVER.

An American Journalist Stricken Down.

New York, Aug. 27.—Mail advices from Mexico report the death from yellow fever in the City of Mexico of Charles Stephen, an American journalist, who was traveling through Mexico to collect data for a book on that country and its leading people. Vera Cruz is still infected with yellow fever, many deaths occurring. The letter states that editors and reporters whose productions do not suit the government are being ordered out of Mexico or imprisoned on trivial charges. The government is just now trying to trace the identity of an American writer who sent to his paper a long article reflecting upon President Diaz and his followers.

Lynched on General Principles.

Tullahoma, Tenn., Aug. 27.—Yesterday morning masked men broke open the workhouse and taking out Will Lewis, colored, hung him to a tree. Lewis had been arrested the day before on a charge of disorderly conduct and why he was lynched is not known.

There is much indignation here among the law abiding citizens and a monster mass meeting was held yesterday afternoon at which the governor was memorialized and requested to offer a reward for the lynchers. The board of aldermen last night offered a reward of $100 for the murderers.

Don't Like Our Cotton.

London, Aug. 27.—The annual report of the northern counties united cotton spinners' association, in referring to grievances in connection with the American cotton cargoes, expressed regret because of the non-abatement of American cotton damp and because no satisfactory regulations designed to remedy the defect have been put in effect.

Struck by a Train

Nashua, N. H., Aug. 27.—W. H. Campbell, a paper box manufacturer, was riding with his wife and daughter this morning when the carriage was struck by a train and all were severely injured, Miss Campbell and her mother perhaps fatally. The horse and the dog were killed.

RAIN MAKING MACHINES.

Col. Dyrenforth's Report to the Department.

The Experiments Have Been Successful When the Atmosphere Was in a Favorable Condition.

Washington, Aug. 27.—(Special)—Acting Secretary Willets, of the agricultural department, has received a report from Col. Dyrenforth, who is at the head of the party down in an arid area of Texas experimenting with the view of producing rain by concussion above the earth's surface. The report deals much with minor details, and with talk of chemical action.

Mr. Willets was not willing to have copies of it made for that reason, but he had no objection to telling in general terms what had been accomplished. On that point the report speaks most encouragingly, even enthusiastically.

The difficulty in the way of the experimenters has been in the high winds of the year in the region where they are at work.

These winds have caused delays and have otherwise interfered with the working of the kites and balloons which transport the explosives to the upper air. However, despite these drawbacks, results highly satisfactory have been attained.

The report says that wherever there has been moisture in the air and they have reached it, rain has followed the explosions. Instances to show this are cited.

When the lower stratum of air is devoid of moisture nothing could be done there. But if in the upper stratum there was moisture, although all dry below, rain followed the explosions.

This Col. Dyrenforth says was to be expected where the clouds are dry, for the reason that no one can produce anything without having material to work upon. After each explosion so far made under proper conditions there has followed rain. The rain came sometimes immediately after the explosion, while upon one occasion it was four hours before precipitation set in. It is not admitted that these falls could have been mere coincidences because they occurred in a region which had been for a long time afflicted with excessive dryness.

The area upon which these rains descended have varied from four to ten or twelve miles around with the point of explosion at the center.

Col. Dyrenforth does not, however, conclude that his work has gone far enough to establish indubitably what he so firmly holds—that is, that where there is rain above it can be brought to the earth by his methods, or improvements upon these methods; but he has no hesitation in saying that the problem is solved to his own satisfaction as far as the principle is concerned.

Acting Secretary Willets believes as Col. Dyrenforth does and has no hesitation in saying so. He said to-day: "These rainfalls where our party is working were no coincidences.

"The previous condition of the weather, it would seem to me, would take the coincidence theory from the mind of even the most skeptical. They had no rain down there.

"The 'rain producers,' as the newspapers call them, went at it, and there was rain, but, of course, it will take more than has been done to convince the general public."

"Do you think they will be convinced this season?"

"That I cannot tell," was the reply. "It depends upon two things. One is whether the prevalence of high winds may not so handicap the working party as to prevent them attaining the best results; and the other, and in it is contained, I think, the greatest difficulty, is the question of money.

"The appropriation for the work was only $9,000. Of that sum $2,000 was spent last year in getting ready the necessary material and preparing the paraphernalia. That $7,000 left has been eaten into already to a most healthy extent.

"It was ex-Senator Farwell who secured the appropriation for this work. Everybody laughed at him. It now looks as if he might before long be able to do some laughing himself."

WANTS TO KNOW THE WHY.

Shaking Up the Customs Officers.

Public Stores are Not Safe While Under Charge of Government Officers.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Assistant Secretary Crounse has written a sharp letter to the collector at New York in regard to the theft from the public stores of $450 worth of goods from Mrs. M. K. Gimson.

The letter says it is difficult to understand "how so large a theft, in numbers of articles (household goods), if not in value, could have been perpetrated in a public building under charge of officers of the government, without connivance or collusion."

The collector is directed to institute an investigation, "and," concludes the secretary, "the department expects some practical results."

Washington, Aug. 27.—The treasury department is advised that a syndicate of German bromine manufacturers have determined to make large consignments of bromine and bromide of potassium to this country, which are to be sold irrespective of cost, at any price, for the purpose of breaking up the American manufacturers, and that the goods will be undervalued.

The collector at New York is instructed to see that the latter part of the design is not carried out.

"It is a fact," that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood, overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

BURNED THE BABES ALIVE.

Terrible Crime Unearthed in Denver.

England Interested as Well as the United States.

Stories of Fiendish Crime That is Beyond Belief, Yet the Police Claim They Can Prove Their Assertions.

Denver, Col., Aug. 27.—Madame Astle, the chiropodist, who was arrested here yesterday charged with criminal malpractice, has a remarkable history. Her exploits in London kept the police busy. Sir Charles Dilke was her personal friend when she was known as Georgia Shorthouse, and it was she who invited Mrs. Crawford to her resort, where Sir Charles afterwards met her at frequent intervals. The disclosures in this intrigue were of a sensational character, and the scandal provoked by the relations of the pair startled England.

Madame Astle knew too much. She was spirited away and was heard from in France and from various parts of Europe. The skill of Scotland Yard, however, failed to locate her, and she sailed for America, remained a short time in New York, and then bobbed up in Denver, where she has been known as Madame Astle, chiropodist and manicure.

The police say they have an affidavit of a man who lived in the same house with Madame Astle to the effect that he has seen the woman burn the bodies of infants in her kitchen stove time after time.

Last night the police arrested a Mrs. Howard who lives in a cottage back of the Astle house. She is supposed to know something about the doings of the woman and is held as a witness.

The police have searched the Astle premises but will not tell what they have discovered. It is thought that some horrible developments will be made when more facts are brought to light.

Late last night warrants were issued for three married couples whose names are withheld for obvious reasons, and they will be arrested. The charges are that they were patrons of Madame Astle and that the women were operated upon by Madame Astle, who disposed of the bodies of the babes by burning them.

The police say that one man very highly connected in this city, has confessed that the woman performed an operation on his wife, and that the children—they were twins—were taken from her alive and that he stood and saw them roasted before his eyes, they having been put into the fire while still alive.

GOSSIP FROM FINDLAY.

Justice Yeatman Beckham Has Resigned.

Republican Convention — Divorce Wanted—General News of the Day by Wire.

Findlay, Aug. 27.—(Special)—Mrs. Lucille Grace Geib wants a legal separation from her husband, Louis F. Geib, to whom she was married in this city in December, 1888. The grounds are failing to provide and profligacy in having squandered her property. The defendant in this case was formerly the day clerk at the West house, Sandusky City.

Republican County Convention.

The central committee have called the county convention to convene in this city on Saturday, Sept. 19, just two weeks before the democratic convention. There will be a total of 501 delegates, the city of Findlay having 257. The ticket to be nominated will be candidates for representative, commissioner, infirmary director, the shortest ticket in this county for several years past. Candidates will be plenty, however.

A Remarkable Occurrence.

A neighborhood picnic was held yesterday on the farm of Adam Cumarine in Portage township. Short impromptu speeches were made by a number of the older ones present relating to pioneer days. There were three couples present, Adam Cumarine and wife, John Cusac and wife and John Cooper and wife, who have all been married and lived together the past fifty years. Who says marriage is a failure? Nearly all of the above have resided in this county since 1834.

Bound Over to Court

Daniel Miller and Wm. Harriett, two young men residing near McComb, are in trouble for stealing a horse and buggy and a number of other articles from A. J. Baldwin, of Benton Ridge, on the 27th of June. The missing articles were found at the residence of Miller's father. At the preliminary hearing held yesterday young Harriett was discharged and young Miller was placed under a $400 bond for his appearance before the grand jury.

New Prohibition Organ.

Rev. Lyman Sharp, pastor of the United Presbyterian congregation in this city, and Dr. Jermer will commence the publication of a prohibition organ in this city in a few days. The same thing has been tried several times before and failed.

Justice Resigned.

Justice Yeatman Beckham has written out his resignation and placed it in the hands of his bondsmen. His clerk, Geo. M. Hammond, will settle up the affairs of the office until his successor is elected in November. There are at least two dozen republicans who feel confident Justice Beckham's shoes will fit them.

The former residents of Columbiana county now residing here held their annual picnic at the old fair grounds yesterday. A very pleasant time was had.

Can You Believe It?

Unscrupulous manufacturers of medicines are offering to supply the retail druggists with an article put up in RED wrapper, almost identical in general appearance, and closely assimilated in every detail to

Carter's LITTLE LIVER Pills!

We know it is hard to believe, and yet it is true, that every day, persons who ask for CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, have handed out to them something which looks like C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S, and yet is not.

They are put up in a RED wrappers, and they closely imitate "C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S" in general appearance. But it is a fraud!!!

The unsuspecting purchaser, who wants CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, because he knows their merit, and is sure of their virtues, goes home with a fraud and imitation in his pocket.

HEED THE WARNING.

Don't be deceived and do not be imposed upon with an imitation of what you want. You want CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, because you know their value and their merit. THEY NEVER FAIL.

When you go to buy a bottle of CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, ask for "C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S," be sure you get "C-A-R-T-E-R-'-S," and take nothing but the genuine CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

INTO ETERNITY,

Plunged a Heavily Loaded Passenger Train,

Changing the Joys of Its Happy Occupants

Into the Sorrows of Disaster and Death.

Another Ashtabula Disaster Placed on Record.

Thirty-Six Bodies Taken from the Wreck and Many More Dying Beneath the Mass of Timbers.

Raliegh, N. C., Aug. 27.—Early this morning a fast passenger train went through a bridge over Third creek on the Western North Carolina railway near Statesville.

The train was filled with people, many of them Tennesseeians returning from coast resorts.

The wreck is complete.

Very few escaped death as the bridge is 60 feet high.

Up to 11 o'clock 36 bodies had been recovered from the wreck.

TO PUMP OUT THE LAKE,

In Order that Ohio People Can Drink.

A Gigantic Scheme for the Inland Cities to Get the Pure Water of Old Erie.

Mansfield, Aug. 27.—Charles W. French, president of the Baker Stone company, which has its immense quarries at Lucas, about twelve miles south of here, and its general offices in this city, is evolving a scheme which if fully realized will not only make him and his associates in the enterprise each a modest fortune, but will make them famous the world over.

Mr. French was approached on the subject to-day by a representative and asked for information about his gigantic scheme. He said that for four years he has been figuring on a plan to supply the cities of Cincinnati and Columbus and all intermediate cities with pure and clear water from the bosom of Lake Erie. The undertaking at first thought, Mr. French says, seemed impossible, but by studying the matter over in all its phases, he now finds the scheme practicable and will consummate it.

During the past few years Mr. French has been corresponding with a number of capitalists in the state and has so far interested them in the matter that an initial company with a capital of $10,000 is already organized. It will be incorporated within a day or two as Mr. French has all the preliminary papers now at hand.

The object of the initial company will be to send surveying parties over the country between the source and supply points for the purpose of ascertaining the shortest and best route for carrying the water pipe line service.

After it has been fullydemonstrated in a practical manner that the scheme is feasible a company comprised of the same gentlemen who are interested in the initial organization will be formed with a capital stock of $25,000,000 for the purpose of purchasing the necessary right of way, pipe and pumping engines to put the plan in operation. The water supply will be drawn from Lake Erie near Cedar Point and what is termed a "crib" will be built in the lake several miles northeast of Cedar Point island.

It is estimated that the construction of the "crib" and laying the pipe a quarter of a mile from the shore near Sandusky will cost at least $5,000,000. This will by far be the most expensive part of the mammoth undertaking. Pipes will then be laid direct toward Cincinnati and Columbus by the least inclined route until the watershed, which is just north of Shelby, is reached.

All along the line of pipes will be stationed mammoth pumping engines for the purpose of raising the water to that point.

After the watershed is reached, however, there will no necessity for pumps, as gravity will rush the water to its destination without further trouble.

The pipe to be used is what is known as welded steel pipe four feet in diameter which will bear a pressure of 3,000 pounds to the inch. A number of these pipes will be laid side by side, the number depending on the amount of water to be furnished for each city.

When the success of the scheme is finally realized a number of these pipes will be laid all over the state of Ohio, thus furnishing lake water to many of the cities of the state.

Mr. French is very sanguine of success in his great enterprise and says that he has any number of letters from all over the state who are urging him to proceed with the scheme, and also that they promise him alomst unlimited financial support when it comes to organizing the stock company with a capital of $25,000,000.

The originator of the undertaking says that until now he and his associates and supporters have kept the matter very quiet, but now that he is assured of sufficient financial backing the survey of the proposed route will begin within a week or two. If carried out as contemplated the supply of water obtained by Cincinnati and Columbus alone will be worth an almost unlimited amount.

Swimming Match.

Nyack, N. Y., Aug. 27.—There is great interest here to-day in the swimming matches for the championship of America, which comes off this afternoon. Whittemore, of St. Louis, the western champion, is here, also W. C. Johnson, the 100 yard champion. Other noted swimmers are expected. The races will take place off the Nyack rowing association's boat house.

To Bury the Unidentified Dead.

New York, Aug 27.—The body of Charles Baumgarden, 17 years, a German employed in the lithographic department of Liebler & Maas, one of the Park place victims, was this morning identified by his father, Philip Baumgarden, of 394 Wallabout street, Brooklyn. It is intended to bury all the unidentified dead to-morrow as the bodies are so badly decomposed.

Destroyed by Fire.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 27.—The Worden Furniture company's factory burned last night. Loss estimated at $75,000, of which $50,000 is on finished goods. Insurance between $40,000 and $50,000.

$20,000 Damage.

Fort Dodge, Ia., Aug. 27.—The business portion of the little town of Fonda was almost destroyed by fire last night. The total loss will amount to $20,000.

Attention, A. O. H.

Division No. 3 will hold a special meeting, Friday evening, August 28, at Immaculate Conception school house to make arrangements for the Grand Excursion.

A new manufacturing plant is the Standard Brick company which has just completed its works here and will begin operations next week. Their capacity will be 25,000 bricks per day.

The republicans selected delegates Tuesday night to attend the county convention at Tiffin next Saturday.

Owing to the accumulation of freight during the L. E. & W. strike the company will put on a night yard force to help clear out.

Jas. Norris, a former Fostorian, late of Marblehead, Mass., is spending a few days in the city, and will leave soon for Allentown, Pa., where he will engage in Y. M. C. A. work.

Miss Lou Myers has gone for a visit with relatives in Hastings, Neb.

IN RAILROAD CIRCLES.

Toledo Conductors Elect Their Officers.

Moulton Houk Receives Some Railroad Matter from Switzerland—Coal for Railroads—Other Items.

This morning Moulton Houk, general passenger agent of the T. & O. C., received some fine lithographed hangers from Switzerland advertising the railroads of that country. They contain some time tables that would puzzle the most adapt decipherer or competer of time cards in this country. The European roads do not print their time tables with the towns in their regular order, but run the towns mixed up, sometimes alphabetically or according to their importance or population. The traveler can't find what town he will reach next or calculate his whereabouts on the line. Time tables are not so much circulated in Europe as are folders giving the rooms and the fares, first, second and third, from each place to every other place. American roads don't do this, but they do strive to keep the public well informed as to the arrival and departure of trains.

Toledo Division Election.

Toledo Division, No. 26, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, has elacted the following officers for the ensuing year: Chief conductor, William Mattison; assistant chief conductor, Albert Fritz; secretary and treasurer, C. B. Osborn, 938 Indiana avenue; senior conductor, C. A. McIntyre; junior conductor, J. T. Wimple; inside sentinel, Bert Null; outside sentinel, R. L. Williams; chaplain, A. French.

Placing Their Coal Orders.

"The railroads have commenced to look out for their coal supply much earlier this season than heretofore," said a prominent coal man this morning, "for they appreciate the fact that if they wait until Sepber 1 they will have a hard time getting what they want. This is due to the fact that late in the season the coal roads are pushing all the coal forward for the lake trade before it ceases. The local roads will probably put every car into service carrying lake coal the last of the season so the railroads have done wisely in placing their orders early."

Rates to be Adjusted.

Special committees representing the Central Traffic association, the Western Passenger association and the Ohio River lines are having a conference in Chicago to-day concerning the reconstruction of passenger rates from Cincinnati to the Pacific Coast. A readjustment of these rates has been asked for with a view to doing away with certain inequalities that are complained of by some of the lines in interest.

The Passenger Department.

Vice Chairman Donalt, of the Central Traffic association, has issued a circular to lines in this territory, quoting the following from the minutes of the last meeting:

"In view of the recent amendments to the rules under which reduced rates are made on the certificate plan, the question as to the propriety of the application of party or round trip ticket rates on occasions where concessions have been authorized on the certificate plan was presented for consideration. A General debate on the subject resulted in the following resolutions: 'Resolved, That the vice chairman be requested to submit the vote of the lines in the territory of the Central Traffic association the following questions, viz.: Where concessions are authorized on the certificate plan should not party or other special rates be prohibited?' We therefore request that you favor the association with an expression of your judgment, which we shall take pleasure in submitting for their guidance at the next meeting on September 2."

Cinders.

C. T. Wight, commercial agent of the B. & O., is expected home to-day.

Traveling Passenger Agent Brown of the Lake Shore is in the city to-day.

A. Andrews, of Cleveland, traveling agent of the Santa Fe, is in town to-day.

J. M. Osborn, division freight agent of Wabash, returned from a trip on the line this morning.

Work was commenced yesterday on the construction of the Toledo, Walhonding Valley & Ohio railroad.

The C. J. & M. took 2,000 people to Devil's Lake to-day on account of the farmers' picnic. A large number went from Toledo.

Toledo railroads were not fied to-day that the general passenger offices of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad will be transferred from Cincinnati to Washington September 1.

The Lake Shore will take a big crowd to Detroit Saturday, which is drummers' day at the Exposition. The Commercial Travelers will conduct the excursion. The train leaves here at 8 a. m.

A circular was received here to-day announcing that the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific had purchased the Kansas & Nebraska railroad, and requesting that local passengers men would make tickets read accordingly.

Bought the "Base Hit."

F. C. Smith, well known to lovers of base ball in this city, has purchased the interest of his partner, C. C. Hirsig, in the "Base Hit" and will continue the business at the old stand, collecting all bills and paying all debts.

The old firm members unite in thanking their friends for past favors, and Mr. Smith will warrant a continuance of such favors.

Want to Build a New Mission.

Last evening an enjoyable ice cream social was given by the Morris Memorial Mission, corner of Page and Union streets, for the purpose of raising funds to build a new mission adjoining the old one. The mission is prospering and the field is enlarging. There are at present 100 children in attendance, ten teachers and four officers. Another entertainment will be given shortly.

Mr. Winslow Still Alive.

The BEE is gratified to learn that Mr. James Winslow, whose death by accident at the Air Line Junction was announced in last night's paper, is still in the land of the living. The right leg was taken off below knee, but he is in a fair way to recovery. Mr. Winslow is now at St. Vincent's hospital. The gentleman can count himself among the few who have had the pleasure of reading their own obituary notices.

Meeting at Memorial Hall.

Dr. G. W. Bryant, commissioner-general of the National Emancipation Monumental association, will address a meeting of citizens at Memorial hall to-night. The doctor is in charge of a project to erect a monument in Jackson park, Chicago, in commemoration of the emancipation of the colored race. Already $55,000 have been raised, and it is desired to secure $150,000. Toledoans in general are requested to turn out to-night.

Regimental Reunion at Sylvania.

The third annual reunion of the One Hundred and Thirtieth regiment, O. V. I., at Sylvania yesterday was a success in every way. Nearly two thousand people were present. The visitors were met at the depot and escorted to Clark's grove, where the morning festivities were held. The address of welcome was read by R. G. Burns and was followed by a musical program. Lunch was served to 1,500 people. In the afternoon Col. H. S. Bunker, of Toledo, addressed the regiment. It was a very enjoyable day throughout.

The precincts of the county have not yet been provided for.

Simon Dolan Dead.

The news was received in the city yesterday that Simon Dolan, familiarly known as the Irish Jew and one of the widest known of the traveling salesmen of the country, had died on Tuesday last. For 15 years he was a constant visitor at Toledo, and few men had a wider reputation as a practical joker. His stories have been repeated from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and it is only a few weeks ago that the BEE printed the particulars of one of the raciest practical jokes ever perpetrated, in which Mr. Dolan figured as the principal. His death will be sincerely regretted by the traveling and hotel men of Toledo.

WAITING FOR THE COURT.

All Excitement at Ottawa Has Died Out.

The People There Believe They Have the Right Man Locked in the Jail.

Ottawa, O., Aug. 27.—To-day there has been no new developments in regard to the prisoner James Roberts, who is charged with the crime of murder and robbing the Exchange bank at Columbus Grove, and who was bound over to the grand jury to answer to the charge.

The public sentiment in this town, as expressed by the mayor, Thomas J. Sweeney, is that the right man is under arrest and that he will be punished.

The law now has him in its hands, and will deal with him accordingly. All during his time of arrest there has been a question as to the guilt of the prisoner.

Not only has his guilt been questioned, but his sanity as well, and this morning Dr. C. E. Beardsley visited the prison to satisfy himself.

His mission was not that of an expert, being merely for the purpose of identification.

In regard to the sanity of the prisoner, Dr. Beardsley said that he had made no critical examination of the prisoner's mental powers, but he judged that he was all right mentally.

There was some mental excitement, he declared, but not enough to cause insanity. The observation was made only during a call out of curiosity to see the prisoner and accordingly cannot count for much in a final trial.

Jacob C. Roberts, the father of the boy, returned to his home, and said he would not return to Ottawa until the time of the trial. To the press representative he said that he hoped the man guilty of the crime would be arrested and punished for his crime, but his son was not the man guilty, and he could prove it when the time came. The sentiment here is decidedly against the prisoner.

Duluth's Postoffice Muddle.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 27.—Wm. F. Henry, formerly assistant postmaster at Duluth, was arraigned this morning before United States Commissioner Tigbe, of this city. He waived examination and was held to the September term of the United States district court at Minneapolis. Henry said to a reporter of the Dispatch that he entertained not the slightest fear of the outcome of the inquiry into his official conduct.

Sherman in Van Wert.

Van Wert, O., Aug. 27.—Senator John Sherman stopped over here yesterday afternoon on his way to Paulding where he will open up the campaign in northwestern Ohio this afternoon, and he was prevailed upon to address the people here, which he did in a speech lasting forty minutes.

JUDGES AND TIMERS

Appointed for the Y. M. C. A. Field Day—The Ladies Invited.

Arrangements have all been completed for the Y. M. C. A. athletic field day at the association grounds on Wakeman street, Saturday afternoon, and the games without doubt will be a great success. Those who will participate have been in active training and effort will be made to make some records that will place Toledo on a standing in amatuer athletic circles. The presence of the ladies is especially desired. No admission fee will be charged and everyone interested is invited.

Secretary Smith to-day appointed the following gentlemen to act as judges, etc.:

Judges—Ralph Rickenbaugh, J. J. Freeman and C. T. Johnson.

Timers—R. J. Thompson, of the Blade, and Geo. W. Stevens, of the Bee.

Referee—Rev. E. W. Hunt.

Starter—Wm. Slevin.

And They Prepared a Funeral for Him.

Two Women Under Arrest in Nebraska Charged With Murder.

Fullerton, Neb., Aug. 27.—A week ago Frank Vesey, a prosperous farmer, died suddenly at his home. Suspicion was directed towards his wife and their cousin, who was living with them. The coroner sent the stomach of the dead man to the Omaha medical college for analysis, where arsenic was found in the organ. The cousin had, it is alleged, purchased arsenic at a drug store on two different occasions. Both women have been arrested and will have a preliminary hearing to-day.

The supposition is that they poisoned Vessey to get possession of his property as they were not satisfied with the quiet of farm life.

NINETY-TWO BALLOTS.

J. P. Forbes Nominated for Senator at Coshocton.

Coshocton, Aug. 27.—The largest democratic convention held in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth senatorial district since its organization was held in this city to-day. W. H. McCabe, of this city, called the convention to order in the City hall and named R. T. Scott, esq., of Cambridge, as chairman. The convention chose F. C. Irvine, of Tuscarawas, and M. V. Bond, of this city, as secretaries.

Hon. J. P. Forbes was nominated for senator on the ninety-second ballot.

Singular Coincidence.

Detroit, Aug. 27.—A. H. Whitney of Ontario arrived at the Russell house, this city, from his home with his wife last night. He died in a carriage, just before the arrival at the hotel, from consumption, of which he was a victim.

This morning A. H. Whitney of Quincy, Ill., registered at the same hotel and died within half an hour of heart diseaser They bear the same name, but were of no relation, and did not even know each other. The deaths were twelve hours apart.

American Cattle in Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 27.—In the senate yesterday Premier Abbott assured that body that the utmost precautions would be adopted in regard to American cattle in bond for slaughter in Canada and shipment to Great Britain, adding that if it was found that the privilege endangered Canada's cattle trade with Great Britain, the government would, if necessary, cancel it.

At Gibraltar.

London, Aug. 27.—A Gibraltar dispatch announces the arrival there of the American school ship St. Marys, Commander John McGowan. The St. Marys expects to sail on her return to the United States on Saturday next.

The Park Place Disaster.

New York, Aug. 27.—Work has been stopped on the Park Place wreck. Sixty-one bodies have been recovered, and the supposition is that many of the bodies were entirely consumed by the flames.

The Suevia In.

New York, Aug. 27.—The steamer Suevia, which has been coming into port with her propeller broken, arrived at Sandy Hook this morning under sail.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Prices Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Denison B. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, }
TOLEDO, O., Aug. 27. }

London wheat market firm, held higher; corn steady. Liverpool wheat firm and ½ pence higher, demand improving; corn steady.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,006,367 bus, compared with 293,797 bus on the same day last year.

California Wheat Movement.—The receipts of wheat at San Francisco in the week ending August 19, equaled 873,450 bu and 12,854 bbls flour. The exports equaled 580,860 bu of wheat—one cargoe to Belgium, three to Queenstown and three to France.

England Flour Advanced. — London, Aug. 26.—The Leed's millers have advaaced the price of flour 1s 6d per bag. Cold and stormy weather prevails throughout almost the whole country. In many places the crops in the fields are under water or beaten down by the wind and irreparably ruined. Farmers are in despair.

Wheaten Bread for Danish Soldiers.

Copenhagen, Aug. 25.—The Danish war minister has followed the example of the German military authorities and decreed that henceforth wheat shall be used in the making of bread for the army, instead of rye. Denmark depends largely on Russia for its supply of rye.

Russia Extending the Prohibition.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 26.—Other kinds of exported grains than wheat are not allowed to contain above 3 per cent of rye or 1 per cent of bran. Reports from Odessa state that the export of maize is prohibited.

The German Grain Market Firm.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—The grain market here closed very firm. Wheat for August delivery showed an advance of 6 marks 75 pfennige per 1,000 kilos. There has been little change in the other months since Monday.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 712,570 bus in excess of the corresponding Thursday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were very large. Wheat, 650,000 bu, and flour very large, sufficient to an aggregate of 800,000 bu. English markets as quoted herein are higher, and prices tending upward.

The features of leading force and prominence in the grain markets are the continuance of unfavorable weather abroad and report of frost in the northwest. Both of them are causes for sincere regret as it entails suffering and want on many a good family who can ill afford high priced bread.

We print a table herein showing the average production of rye in this country. Heretofore we have consumed the crop in this country, or nearly so. In the year ending June 30, 1891, our exports had been 333,000 bu. In the previous year 2,257,000 bu. If we are to export largely this year, it must increase the consumption of wheat. It will cut off distilling into whisky or raise the price of the latter, and the republican party never will consent to that.

Somehow, the eventualities this year are all against the short sellers, A Detroit circular says, "the inpecunious St. Louis and Chicago bears never tire of fooling with the buzz saw." We may have heretofore remarked that it was not a year for short sellers.

The wheat markets on this side opened with considerable spirit at improved prices and advanced. Later the advance was nearly lost by sharp selling all along the line. English markets close at higher than opening prices; Berlin and Paris reported closing lower.

*Corn for September has been 1 to 1¼c higher in New York, and opened ½c up in Chicago, declining in both markets.

Taking into consideration all the foreign markets, buyers seemed to consider the basis of advance to-day a little inadequate and declined to go on with it, and the markets closed easy at prices for wheat below yesterday's closing. Corn closed higher east and lower west.

In New York August wheat closed ¼c and September ⅜c lower. August corn ⅝c and September ¾c higher. In Chicago September wheat closed ⅜c and December ¼c lower. September corn ½c lower.

In Toledo.—The busines in wheat futures has been active, with a strong and higher opening and a weak closing, which was at about the lowest of the day. August and September gained ¼ and December lost ½.

On the call August wheat sold at $1 05; Sept. at $1 05 to $1 05¼; Dec. at $1 08⅝ to $1 08¼. After the call August sold at $1 05 and closed at $1 04¼; Sept. sold at $1 05 and closed at $1 04¼; Dec. sold at $1 08 and closed at $1 07¼.

Cash wheat was in good request and the offerings were disposed of. No. 2 soft was freely dealt in, commencing at $1 05 and ending at $1 04¼, a loss of ¼c. No. 3 soft at $1 03@1 02½, closing at $1 03.

Rejected No. 1 at 75 to 74c; No. 1 white at $1 03. No. 2 white at $1 01.

Corn—No. 2, 66c; No. 3 at 65c. Oats—On the call May sold at 37½ to 37c; after thec all May at 37c; No. 2 cash 32½c; No. 2 white at 35c.; No 3 white at 32½c.

Rye was less in demand and lower for futures. No 2 at 94c to 95c; September at 93c to 92½c; No 3 at 81½c; rejected at 83c to 86c.

Clover seed was active but a shade weaker. Oct sold on the call at $4 90 to $4 87½; Dec at $4 90; after the call Oct sold at $4 85 to $4 87½ and closed at $4 90; Dec at $4 95.

The stock market was active and in the main firm at the opening, the advance ranging from ⅛ to ½ per cent. Sugar trust was exceptionally strong, and advanced from 85 to 86¼. After 10:30 there was a reaction which brought figures down to about last night's prices by 11 o'clock. In the hour to noon there was a further decline led by Lake Shore. That stock was heavily sold and dropped to 114, a decline of 1¼ per cent. The remainder of the list sympathized fractionally, and were from ⅛ to ¼ lower at noon than they closed yesterday. At this writing the market is dull.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Opening: Wheat—September, $1 03½; December, $1 06. Corn—September, 63½c; October, 59⅞c. Oats—September, 31⅝c; October, 31c. Pork—September, $10 30; October, $10 45. Lard—September, to 6.60@6 62½; October, $6 55. Ribs—September, $6 65; October, $6 77½.

JUDICIAL TICKET.

For Common Pleas Judge,
GRAYSON MILLS, Erie County.

Gov. Campbell tersely sums up democracy and the certain triumph of its principles, when he says: "The party is sound in doctrine and the people are with it."

The reports concerning the engagements between the Chilian armies convey only one positive assurance, and that is that they cannot possibly all be true. For more definite information we must wait.

It is cruel of the National Provisioner to expose the American tin plate farce. If Candidate McKinley cannot rattle a piece of home-manufactured tin-plate how is he going to drown the bleat of the Ohio sheep?

President Harrison's tergiversations on the silver question are not, after all, satisfactory to the silver states and yet have offended his supporters in the east. Hard is the second term road to the White House, and many the false turns along the way that lead into quagmires.

The republican league of Kansas in convention yesterday endorsed the administration of President Harrison, but seated as delegates the representatives from the various lodges of the "Knights of Reciprocity," who are promised important places in the councils of the league. Carry the news to Washington.

Another organization torn up over the color line, this time the "Patriotic Order of Sons of America," which is holding national camp at Philadelphia. The delegates from Illinois and Ohio voted as a unit against eliminating the word "white" from the constitution. Will this "southern outrage" escape the eye of Mr. Foraker?

The assistance Minister Egan is giving Dictator Balmaceda recalls last year's disgrace when Minister Mizner allowed Barrundia to be shot to death under the American flag to please the despot of Gautemala. The administration is responsible for both these misrepresentatives of this republic. Mizner was, under popular pressure, recalled. Is it not time to demand the recall of Minister Egan?

The international gush between England and France, between Queen Victoria and President Carnot, anent the peaceful occupancy of English waters by the French fleet, is scarcely worth comment. It means even less than such hollow courtesies usually signify. Great Britain will still remain on the side of the dreibund, and no possible national complications could arise that would range France with Great Britain.

What a peck of trouble the republican party in Massachusetts is having, and with what longing eyes its leaders look back on the not distant years when the party had a cinch on the state. It is the colored man and brother now who contributes to the perplexities of the situation. He demands that one of his race shall be nominated for state auditor, and threatens that thousands of colored men will bolt the ticket if it is not done.

The report of the German statistical bureau for 1890 shows that 90 per cent. of its emigrants sailed for the United States, notwithstanding the imperial government has spent large sums of money developing its African colonies, and encourages emigration thither. The German immigrant makes a good United States citizen in short order, and if Emperor William cannot prevent his coming to America that is America's gain.

Two years ago Governor Foraker was taken down in the midst of the contest and the democratic press and even Campbell himself made all manner of fun of the governor. Republican papers cannot afford to imitate the bad manners of democratic editors.—Sandusky Register.

Eight years ago Candidate George Hoadly was taken down in the midst of the contest and the republican press and even Foraker himself made all manner of fun of Hoadly. Honors seem to be easy.

Chicago claims to have 1,463 hotels and to be able to accommodate 135,000 guests in them alone, not counting its boarding houses, rooms for rent and restaurants. No doubt that city can house all its guests at world's fair time, but these hostelries are widely scattered, many of them far away from the fair grounds. A very creditable show in that city this week, held near these grounds, closed at a loss because, as the local papers admitted, the south side car lines could not carry the people who would have attended. The furnishing of transportation from over the city to the fair parks is the great problem which Chicago must tackle, in order to properly care for her guests in 1893.

It seems the building which collapsed in New York city last Saturday was put up to be used as a mercantile house, and the builder never contemplated its conversion into an establishment in which heavy machinery would be used. Mr. Jardine, the architect of the building, says in an interview:

"There were probably 20 presses of the aggregate weight of forty tons on those upper floors, and so far as I have been able to learn they have been running day and night for twenty years. The plans did not contemplate that the structure was to be subjected to these constant strains of weight and shock."

A great deal is being said, now that a hundred lives have been sacrificed to furnish the text, concerning the duty of building inspectors to see that buildings are not misused, and that is a lesson that might be learned in every city, and not New York alone. As the New York World humbly says: "The collapse of a building is a shame to the city in which such a casuality is possible."

The Boston Herald is 'way behind the times when it says:

> The people's party in Massachusetts is entitled to the credit of originality, at least, in its treatment of the liquor question. The plank relating to this subject in the platform it has adopted calls upon the state government to take exclusive charge of importation, manufacture and sale of all spirituous liquors through appointed agencies and salaried officials in the several towns and cities.

This the Herald hails as "a novel proposition." Is it possible the proceedings of the people's party convention in Ohio were not read at the Hub? It would seem not, since that same proposition was favorably considered at the Springfield convention. But the Buckeyes cannot claim "credit for originality" as its discoverers, any more than can the delegates to the Bay state convention. This liquor plank in the people's party platform comes straight from the Bedlamites—beg pardon! we should say Bellemyites—though the first name may stand and not be deemed unfitting.

WOOL, WOOL, OHIO WOOL.

The silence of Major McKinley upon the question of the decreased price of Ohio wool is not covered up by the campaign song of American tin, nor by the changes he is trying to ring on the silver question. It is natural he should avoid the subject in which the Ohio farmer is most interested, since he has nothing to say upon it that is to his advantage, but the injured parties are grimly in earnest in seeking to know what has hurt them, and they are likely to find out, which will be very much to Mr. McKinley's disadvantage.

The Dry Goods Economist has been investigating some Philadelphia woolens lately, and the result may, in some measure, assist the farmer in the finding-out process. The Economist suspected the quality of certain high-priced Philadelphia woolens and worsteds, secured samples, and submitted them to an expert. Here is one paragraph of his report:

> This firm has sold in large quantities this season a worsted fabric weighing twenty-two to twenty-three ounces, varying in price from a piece dyed solid black at $1.50 to fancy weaves from $1.62 1-2 to those containing silk twist at $1.75. The fabric is composed of a worsted warp made from delaine wool, which entirely composes the face of the cloth and constitutes 28 per cent. of its weight. The filling makes the balance of 72 per cent., and is entirely cotton and shoddy, in the proportion of 92 1-2 per cent. cotton and 7 1-2 per cent. shoddy.

The following comment upon this astonishing cheat is offered by the St. Louis Republic:

> So in this dollar and a half all-wool goods 92 1-2 per cent. of 72 per cent. of the whole is pure cotton. That is, 67.6 per cent. of the whole is cotton. If it weighs twenty-two ounces, then 67.6 per cent. of this, or not quite fifteen ounces, is pure cotton, which at 7 cents a pound would cost 6 9-16 cents. So in this dollar and a half yard of cloth the raw material in it costs less than 7 cents. It is useless, absolutely useless, for the Ohio sheep to try to compete with that. The expert in this case says no one but an expert could have told by looking at this dollar and a half goods that it was not first-class all-wool stuff. But on pulling it to pieces and putting it under the microscope he found that nearly two-thirds of it never saw a sheep's back, but came out of the southern cotton patches.
>
> So the people of Ohio have cheap wool and dear clothing as a result of Mr. McKinley's consultations with his Philadelphia and New England friends. And so the Ohio sheep might as well take in his sign and go out of business. He might hold his own against South America, Australia and Africa, but he is "not in it" when he is thus compelled to compete with several million mules backed by black republicans in the culture of 7-cent cotton. The "pauper labor of Europe" is not a circumstance to the pauperism of working for cotton at 7 cents, and there is no possible way of making the Ohio sheep work cheap enough to compete with it.

Here is another pointer for the finding-out process. The quotations of August prices for the foreign carpet wools which American manufacturers find indispensable for admixture show they are from three to four cents a pound higher than they were last year, while American wool of all grades has declined from two to three cents. Bradstreet gives the following figures:

This is how the wool tariff works, the tariff which was to make the fleece of the Ohio sheep golden. To pay more for his clothing and his carpets, to get an inferior quality in the bargain, to sell his wool for less than before, this is where the Ohio farmer finds himself after a year of it. All because he listened to the siren singing of the Ohio shepherds, who listened to the seductive promises of McKinley and his colleagues, who listened in their turn to the demands of eastern manufacturers.

Is there anything in the tariff as far as it is found out which proves McKinleyism a protection to American wool growers? Is the Ohio farmer satisfied with the wool tariff, now that he can cast up what he gets under it and set that off against what he pays out under it? Would he not be better off, as well as the rest of us, under natural conditions of trade? Can Candidate McKinley answer these questions to the farmers' satisfaction and retain the farmers' votes? We trow not.

"I Would Die First!"

Would J. B. Foraker like to lay his right hand upon his left breast in the region of the pericardium, and looking John Sherman squarely in the eye say to him: "I will work for your re-election to the senate!" We ask, would he?—Dayton Times.

Thorn in Republican Flesh.

The new voting law seems to be a thorn in the side of the republican politician. He can't get reconciled to the fact that a man should have the right of privacy in casting his vote. It will stop the business of buying votes.—Elyria Democrat.

That's True, Too.

President Harrison may have a good many strong friends, but if they were less garrulous and effusive in their admiration his dreams would not be disturbed by so many nightmares.—New York News.

Tin Plate Mill Organizer.

The republican committee has created a new office—organizer of tin plate mills. They are on the style of the short term benefit orders.—Massillonian.

IN SANDUSKY COUNTY.

The Politics of our Near by Neighbor.

What are the Farmers Going to Do This Fall?

Stewart's Nomination Looked On as Strong—Col. Haynes on the Ohio Issues.

Fremont, Aug. 27.—(Special)—The manner in which Judge Grayson Mills was nominated here yesterday was indication of the fact that he has performed his duties in a perfectly satisfactory way, and that he has proven himself to be a worthy successor to the lamented Judge DeWitt.

Being called to the bench at the early age of 37 by the governor, he without any practical judicial experience, assumed the duties of a common pleas judge, from where his duties left off, and has made few if any mistakes.

The nomination was a graceful compliment to a modest jurist who has a bright future before him.

Politics in Sandusky.

Sandusky county politics just at this time are between the ebb and the flow. What the incoming of the tide will result in, is no better known here than in the other counties in the great northwest. What will the farmers do with the people's party? That is the question and the man who can answer, possesses the key to the political situation in Ohio. The difficulty is that nobody knows anything about it.

Three weeks ago the writer was in Sandusky county, and this visit reveals no new developments.

The Farmers' alliance is here, the people's party is here, but how much strength the latter may develop, or how the former may view the candidates and platform of the Springfield convention is a regular Chinese puzzle.

The situation does not appear to be any clearer to residents here.

The Bee saw Col. Haynes yesterday, but he can tell nothing about it, so he says.

"The farmers have put up a ticket," said he, "but how many of them will vote for it is a mystery. In Sandusky county the farmers are in tolerable good shape, and although occasionally you will find those who are not contented, they will not say how they intend to vote at the coming election.

"I think that pretty generally farmers are of the opinion that the taxes are too high and will vote in favor of a reduction. I am sure the democratic farmers will do this, and I have heard of republicans who will do the same thing."

"What do you think of Stewart's nomination?"

"The nomination is all right. Stewart is a young man, of good habits, a good, faithful, working democrat, and will poll more than the strength of his party. There is no manner of doubt of his election."

Frank O'Farrell, one of the young democratic hustlers of Sandusky county, was also seen.

"The Farmers' alliance and the people's party are distinctly separate and I do not think there will be any reduction of the normal democratic majority in Sandusky county because of it. Farmers will vote the democratic ticket this year. There is the place to secure relief for any grievances they may have. The people's party in this county is engineered by men who have never been particularly successful politically, and I do not fear that many Sandusky county democrats will go off after strange goods in this year of our Lord."

All United.

Mr. B. S. Garver, another young democrat hustler, said:

"We are united here now and fear nothing. The People's party will not hurt us, and in my opinion their vote will be small. They have a full ticket in the field, but it will in no way damage the democracy. We will come up with our usual majority when election time rolls around."

J. W. Ramsberger, an old line democrat, observed that "the farmers' movement has me completely at a loss. I am like the Dutch judge who, after hearing the arguments on both sides of a case, said to the attorneys, 'Gentlemen, you haf me badly mixed.'

"It looks as though democrats will stick to the text this year. The People's party has too many isms to become popular. Many of its theories were killed off years ago and have apparently came to life. What the country needs is lower taxes and good government. These are promised by the democratic party and it would seem as if the men who vote for any third party this fall, will throw their votes away at a critical period. Still, as I said before, there is not much telling as to the actual condition, and absolutely none about the result."

Editor Petty.

Dr. James T. Petty, the editor of the Fremont Daily News, and a sort of neutral republican, so far as the city of Fremont is concerned, said: "The alliance in Sandusky county is led by N. R. Tucker, a man who has belonged to all parties, and it may pretty safely be set down that the People's party is composed mostly of men who for some reason have become disgruntled with the course pursued by the old parties. Certainly it is a conscientious following.

"Local farmers hold that it is impossible for them to make any headway. Money lenders from the county seat have bought up the paper of those in debt, and have more or less controlled them politically and otherwise. They have grown tired of this and desire to act and vote more independently than they have heretofore.

"The class of farmers who compose the alliance in Sandusky county is, I think, fairly representative, and are generally men who are in straightened circumstances for some reason. Many of them are poor as a logical result of talking politics at the county seat five days out of the week, and others are in that condition for other reasons.

"The encroachment of heavy monied interests upon small farms has reached a point, that calls for reform, and in this sense the farmers can not be blamed.

"I do not believe that any beneficial results will be obtained from a third party movement. Relief is only to be looked for from one or the other of the two old parties."

"Have you any idea which party in Sandusky county will be most injured by the new movement?"

"None whatever. I am inclined to the opinion that it will be about a stand-off here.

"I am in sympathy with the farmers who are ridden with burdens, but I reiterate that their best interests cannot be divorced from either one of the old parties, although honest men are endeavoring to demonstrate to the contrary."

The People's party in Sandusky county is not nearly so well organized as it is in tOttawa county, and it is there they will commit hari-kari if they put a ticket in the field.

Democrats all over this section of country are thoroughly posted on the platforms of the two great parties, and they will vote for the party pledged to the correction of existing abuses—the party of the people, the democratic party.

Lower taxes, good government, good money and honest executive legislative and judicial offices, may all be obtained by voting the democratic ticket, and democrats of Sandusky county will be found in line to this end when the ballots are counted next November.

Carnegie's Real Worry.

Andrew Carnegie is, of course, disturbed at the thought of the labor troubles hanging over the iron and coal trades of this country; but it is only when he hears that the grouse on the Scottish moors are dying off by thousands that he breaks into cold sweats and is unable to enjoy his usual placid sleep.—Philadelphia Times.

THEY RETURN THANKS.

Germantown Patriarchs Pleased Over Toledo's Treatment of Them.

The chevaliers of Canton Frank, No. 55, P. M., on their return from the encampment at Presque Isle, adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That our thanks are due and are hereby tendered to the chevaliers of Toledo, individually and collectively, for the fraternal and knightly courtesies extended to us during the encampment at Presque Isle.

After the adoption of the above the Kickapoos presided over by the renowned Chief Red Cloud in his ghost dance costume, assembled in front of their tepee, when a brewing of "sagwa" was in progress and adopted the following:

Resolved, That we will hold in grateful remembrance the chevaliers of grand canton Lucas and canton Imperial, so long as there are garter snakes, toad stools, herbs and cereals for the manufacture of "Sagwa," and as "another testimonial" of our regard for them we do hereby adopt the chevaliers of grand canton Lucas and canton Imperial as members of the Kickapoos, hereby authorizing them to administer the great remedy ("Sagwa") to all chevaliers for the cure of aches, pains, neuralgia, fits or anything like that.

The Germantown Press, speaking of the hospitality shown the Patriarchs militant during their recent stay in the city, says: "The visitors were taken to all the points of interest, and everywhere did the same generous feeling exist. The people were decidedly courteous and obliging, and royally did they entertain all of their visitors. Too much cannot be said in their favor, and Germantown only seeks an opportunity to reciprocate.

TO KEEP HIM ALIVE,

Mayor Emmick Orders a Botch Job of Pulling,

The Result of Which Will Likely Prove Costly to the City—Makes a Difference Whose Ox is Gored.

Mayor Emmick now has another virtuous spell, and is boasting that he ordered the raid on the houses of ill fame Tuesday night and is congratulating himself over the arrest of 40 unfortunate women. No one will deny that the raid was proper, but it was not ordered because of Mayor Emmick's inborn goodness or because he was shocked at the prevalence of vice in the city. The raid was made because Mayor Emmick wanted to create another sensation, and by this means cover up the fact that he is making no effort to close the saloons on Sunday. Investigation of the Sunday saloon matter and of several others connected with the police department, were coming very close to the head of the city government, and therefore he caused this raid to hide his tracks. A few brothels made to pay for the Sunday saloons.

The mayor in his haste to do something to throw the public off the track compelled Chief O'Dwyer to make the raid without proper preparation and without system. In consequence all but two cases are to be contested, and the defendants have employed able counsel to take charge of their cases. This is going to give the city a long fight and will crowd police court business for weeks to come.

Most of the defendants are notorious characters, but from the circumstance it is the opinion of lawyers that the prosecution will have a hard time to make a case. If convictions are not made the city will have a nice bill of costs.

There are also several other features of the raid that reflect but little credit upon several other city officials. Judge Sala probably knew of the raid, for he and the mayor train very close together, and was on hand at the police station early in the evening to see the show. When they began to bring in the prisoners the judge was in the turnkey's room and gloated over the hauls made by the various squads of patrolmen. He stayed at the station until after midnight and conducted himself in a manner little becoming the dignity of his position, laughing at the prisoners brought in and making slighting remarks.

The poor management of the police was also shown yesterday afternoon when these cases were brought up. The defendants were not brought into court and the whole business was badly bungled.

ON THE WAY HOME.

The President Returning to Washington.

A Heavy Rain Mars the Pleasure But Does Not Seem to Decrease the Interest.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Aug. 27.—The president and his party left here at 8:30 o'clock en route to White River Junction, via Bradford. The president spent the night quietly at the home of Col. Fairbanks. Rain began to fall during the night and at the time the president left Mr. Fairbanks' house to drive to the station there was a steady downpour.

It was announced that if this should continue the parade at White River Junction might be abandoned and the president's train would be backed up to the grounds of the Horse Breeders' association. In spite of the rain there was the usual crowd at the station. Gen. Gilmore, Horton, Representative Powers and George F. Childs accompanied the president to White River Junction.

White River Junction, Vt., Aug. 27.—When the president's train left St. Johnsbury, Representatives Power and Grout, Gen. Gilmore, Col. Horton Fletcher Proctor, Frank Partridge, solicitor of the state department, and George T. Childs, accompanied the party.

The president was installed in the observation room of the Elsmere. At Wells river the train stopped to take on ex-Gov. Farnham. The train arrived at Bradford at 9:55, ten minutes behind time. There was a crowd at the station.

Gov. Farnham introduced the president, who spoke for five minutes from a platform erected in front of the station. He referred pleasantly to the warmth of his greeting and paid a high tribute to Vermont and her people.

Rain was falling during the president's speech, but the rainfall was much lighter than when the train left St. Johnsbury and there was a promise of clear weather.

At Fairlee, the home of Gen. Gilmore, the train slackened speed but did not stop. The train arrived at White River Junction at 10:45 and the president's car was taken out of the train and switched out to the fair grounds.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

Called to Meet at Ottawa Sept. 24—The Representation.

The democratic senatorial convention of the Thirty-third district met at the Hotel Union, this city, to-day, there being present Dr. Lanhart, of Wood county; August Fipp, of Putnam; Judge W. H. Handy, of Fulton, Senator H. C. Groschner, of Henry, and M. Harrington, of Lucas, the full cammittee, with the exception of W. H. Platt, of Hancock.

Senator Groschner was chairman of the meeting and Judge Handy secretary.

It was decided to hold the convention at Ottawa, Putnam caunty, on Thursday, September 24. L. G. Richardson, of this city, will be temporary chairman, and E. R. Jones, of Bowling Green, secretary.

The apportionment is to be one delegate for every 100 democratic votes cast for Cromley, and is as follows;

	Votes.	Delegates
Wood	4120	41
Lucas	7360	74
Putnam	3580	35
Henry	3333	33
Fulton	1903	20
Hancock	4674	47
Total		250

A New York Thief Invents a Novel Plan

For Making a Man Turn Over His Property.

After Robbing Him He Makes Him Write a Statement that He Gave the Goods to the Thief.

New York, Aug. 27.—Joseph Sherrer is a young man of enterprise, which, if exercised in legitimate channels, might bring him fame and fortune.

He is a thief, however, and with very novel methods. He not only holds a pistol to the head of a stranger in this city and forces him to turn over his valuables, but then with rare presence of mind he compels his victim to sign a document stating that the property was parted with voluntarily.

Then he produces a witness who attests this false statement with his signature.

Andrew Wagner has been a merchant in Pittsburg, Pa., for 15 years. A week ago his store was burned, and not caring to go to the expense of refitting a new place, he determined to return to his home in Scotland.

With his wife he came to this city, intending to sail for Glasgow to-day.

They arrived on Monday and went to board at No. 132 Greenwich street, engaging two rooms on the second floor.

Among their fellow boarders was Joseph Sherrer, an under-sized, swarthy complexioned German. He made himself particularly pleasant to the Scot, who, although fully equipped with the usual caution of his race, took the young man into his confidence. He told him of his experiences and of his hopes and plans for the future.

Sherrer paid the closest attention to those portions of the story where money and other things of value were mentioned. After dinner on Monday evening Wagner and Sherrer left the table together and went to Wagner's room. What followed is best told in Wagner's story related in the Tombs police court yesterday.

"Sherrer came into my room," he said, "and after we had talked together a little while he suggested getting some beer, and asked me to let him have 10 cents, as he was short of money. I gave him a silver dollar and he went down to the saloon after the beer. He returned in a few minutes with a pitcher, which he handed to me. There were no glasses in the room, so I raised the pitcher to my lips to drink and discovered that there was no beer in it. It was full of water. I raised my eyes to him and asked him what he meant. I looked right into the barrel of a bright, shining revolver. Lowering the weapon to my heart, he demanded all the money I had. He is a little man and I could have crushed him in one hand, but he had the pistol, so I thought it better to do as he asked. He took all the money I had, my diamond ring and my watch. He even made me take off my shoes and stockings to see if I had any money concealed in them."

Then, Wagner says, "Sherrer produced a paper, said 'Sign this,' and held the revolver in very unpleasant proximity to Wagner's waistcoat until he affixed his signature. Next he called into the room a man who signed the document as a witness. Then Sherrer left, after locking Wagner in the room. Wagner forced open the door and told his wife of his experience. A policeman was called who arrested Sherrer in his room. In his possession was found the following agreement:

"New York, August 23, 1891.

"To Mr. Joe Sherrer, I the undersigned do herewith declare that I am willing to subscribe my money in amount of $5.80, nickel watch and rolled gold chain to Joe Sherrer, 132 Greenwich street. I'm willing never to ask for those things again, and I did it from my own account.

"This following is my own handwriting. Andrew Wagner.

"Witness —Otto Vruppe.

"I know the witness as a respectable man. Andrew Wagner."

The bold burglar made no statement in court yesterday, but Policeman Filan, who made the arrest, said that Sherrer had told him that Wagner had given him the property voluntarily. Sherrer is an idle ne'r-do-well. He is a painter, but no one in the neighborhood has ever known him to do any work.

He always seemed to be well supplied with money, and told the neighbors that he had a wealthy mother in Vienna. He pleaded not guilty, and was held for trial in $2,000 bail. Wagner was sent to the house of detention as a witness, as it was feared he would leave the country. Mrs. Wagner is a fine-looking Scotch woman, with snapping black eyes and raven hair. She was very much purturbed at the delay caused in her departure from the country.

"As soon as my husband told me that he had been robbed," she said, "I ran upstairs to my room and took all my money out of my trunk. I always keep my husband's money for him and it was lucky for him at this time that I did so, for the thief only got $5.80. I put the rest of the money in the bank today, where it will be safe until after this affair is settled and we can go home to Belfast. While I was in the street looking for a policeman Sherrer ran downstairs and locked the street door so I could not get back into the house."

LOCAL LABOR NEWS.

The proposed labor paper is receiving somewhat encouraging support from the labor unions of the city. The furniture workers' union, the carpenters' union and the machinists' unions at meetings held last night endorsed the project, and the delegates to the central labor union will support it. This evening the Central Labor union will discuss among other things the advisability of endorsing the project to start a Simon pure labor paper. It is understood that the majority of the unions favor it, and it is probable that the proposition will be accepted at to-night's meeting. The arrangements for labor day have been perfected and the grand marshal will announce the names of his aids within a few days. The list of prizes to be given at the park is very expensive and valuable. The amusement program is in the hands of a very competent committee, who will see that those who visit the picnic will have the worth of their money.

Next Saturday evening there will be held a meeting at Carpenter's hall for the purpose of organizing a union of iron machine hands. All mechanics in this trade are urgently requested to attend the meeting.

The Major Refers to Brother Mack.

What is the matter with the thinking apparatus of the usually logical Sandusky Register? It says that the primary object of a tariff is revenue—the secondary object protection, and that is the doctrine of a majority of republicans. 'Pears to us that this is getting the animal's legs mixed with the shafts. If we have protection we get revenue, don't we? But it does not follow that if we get revenue that we get protection.—Dayton Journal.

Things Possible in This Campaign.

Let us be prepared for anything that comes. We will next hear that the McKinley bill has made the bread fruit trees of the tropics grow luxuriantly on the bleak hills of Vermont. This is no more absurd than the claim that it has changed the soil of Ohio so that it will produce Sumatra tobacco in abundance.—Lancaster Eagle.

Copper-Lined Stomachs.

The Bucyrus Forum makes the good suggestion that if the wool-growers of Ohio can vote for McKinley in the face of the decline in the price of wool they certainly ought to be awarded a chromo for possessing the latest, best and most approved triple-plated and copper-lined political stomachs in the state.

REMEMBER THE POOR.

The Humane Society in Need of Clothing—Donations of Any Kind Gratefully Received.

The humane society is making preparations to care for the children now that winter is approaching and school is soon to begin.

The supply of clothing is completely exhausted and the superintendent earnestly desires the public will be liberal in its donations, as the children are compelled to go to school but cannot do so unless provided with clothes to wear.

The society is moderate in its demands, asking only for old cast off clothing, of any kind. The parents of the children are glad to get clothes of any kind, and make them aver to fit. This should be remembered, as a great many garments are turned over to the rag man that would be welcomely received by the poor and needy of the city.

It must also be remembered that this society which is doing so much good in the city depends entirely on the generosity and co-operation of the public for its existence.

ARE BURNING THE GRASS.

Desperate Move of Home-Seekers in the West.

A Last Effort to Drive the Cattlemen from the Cherokee Strip Will Be Successful.

Caldwell, Kas., Aug. 27.—All day yesterday this town was enveloped in a cloud of smoke coming from the Cherokee Strip.

The actions of the administration in allowing the Cherokees to hold cattle in the strip has so incensed the homeseekers that a meeting was called, and although it was held with closed doors, it now is known that it was for the purpose of calling for volunteers to burn every spear of grass in the Cherokee Strip.

These volunteers took their departure Monday night and scattered in all directions, and the work of Tuesday is only the beginning of what will be done.

The Cherokees have called on the military to try and suppress the incendiaries, but they are powerless. There is not men enough on the regular police force to prevent the homeseekers from accomplishing their ends.

These men know every part of the strip, and a whole regiment could not capture one boomer or convict him after he was captured. The homeseekers are thoroughly organized and their actions are secret. They propose that as long as they are kept out of the strip no one shall be benefited by it.

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 27.—A dispatch has been received here to-day stating that United States Marshal Grimes, of Oklahoma, has received special instructions from Washington to send a large posse of deputies into the Cherokee Strip with orders to arrest all persons attempting to make settlements or burn the grass.

THE MASONIC TEMPLE.

Improvements To Be Made at Once in the Building.

The directors of the Masonic Temple met last night and discussed contemplated improvements in the building. It is well known that Armstrong & Clarke have been desirous of securing more room for their immense business, and it is also equally well known that the Masons and their friends are desirous of having an elevator. It is likely that both elements will have their wants supplied.

It is contemplated to have the water works office occupy the room now used by the city auditor, who goes to the quarters used by Ziegler on the Adams street side, and in which vaults will be placed. Armstrong & Clarke will then have the water works office for a storeroom, the directors arranging a 10-foot arch between to connect. The big grocers can thus get into the cellar from their new room, leaving the hall vacant, so that an elevator can be constructed. These plans, of course, are all contingent on the acceptance of the auditor's room by the water works trustees, but it is thought there will be no difficulty in this line.

All the improvements proposed are badly needed, and their early completion will be hailed with delight by all concerned.

Inventive Genius Will Get There.

The reports that the supply of natural gas is failing in the Indiana fields will strengthen the growing belief that this highly prized adjunct of domestic comfort is of only temporary endurance, indeed, the total disappearance of natural gas from homes and factories seems to be a factor of the near future. Meanwhile science is making slow progress with artificial fuel gas and the danger seems to be that the natural supply will vanish before the artificial is provided. Still, the history of the world shows that inventive genius has frequently been equal to emergencies not less great.—Columbus Dispatch.

Why Republicans Will Vote for Campbell.

Thousands of Ohio republicans will vote for James E. Campbell for governor because they know him to be an honest man and the unyielding foe to corruption in every form, and thousands more will vote for him because they despise the McKinley tariff bill and will not support its author.—Findlay Courier.

Hoar's Power Has Waned.

Even Senator Hoar, the old shell-back of Massachusetts, is now willing to concede that the Bay state may be reckoned as among the doubtful quantities. Heretofore, he has held it in the hollow of his hand, but political Bourbonism is dead even in Massachusetts.—New York News.

Only Republican Politics.

Quay, in Pennsylvania, insists upon having the political battle fought upon tariff lines. McKinley, in Ohio, although the father or at least the godfather of the republican prohibitive tariff policy, insists upon making free coinage the sole issue. Things are rapidly getting mixed.—New York Telegram.

Fixing for Crow, as it Were.

It is none of our business particularly, but it seems to us that republican papers which are dismissing President Harrison from the field of possibilities in 1892 are unnecessarily placing themselves in a position which may prove embarrassing ten months hence.—Youngstown Telegram.

That's What We're After.

The managers of the republican canvass in Ohio want to relegate the question of the tariff to the background. Nobody can blame them for this, as this question is the one which will surely defeat McKinley for governor if it is thoroughly explained to the voters of that state.—New Orleans Delta.

Faint Praise.

Major McKinley's opening oration will not thrill the state with enthusiasm or bring to him any considerable accession of doubtful votes except on the silver issue.—New York Recorder (republican and high protection organ).

Missouri Alliance.

Pertle Springs, Mo., Aug. 27.—At the alliance convention yesterday afternoon, after a lively debate lasting an hour and a half the report of the committee on resolutions was adopted. The election of president was the next order of business and resulted in the election of Leverett Leenard over Judge N. J. Woolard, by a vote of 81 to 59—a decided victory for the Hall faction.

Deserting Our Ships.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—There were 24 desertions from the United States steamship Pensacola yesterday, making, with the four on Tuesday, 28 since the vessel was ordered on the China station. The men say the Pensacola is not seaworthy.

Went Back at the Old Wages.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—The stevedores who struck for an increase of wages some ten days ago, held a meeting last night and decided to return to work this morning at the old rate of wages.

Damaged by Fire.

Boston, Aug. 27.—Coleman's stables on Portland street were damaged $50,000 by fire at a late hour last night.

A CRUEL WAR IS OVER.

Balmaceda Has Won His Long Fight.

Joy Among the Chilians at Washington.

The Insurgents Do Not Believe the Report But There is Every Evidence That it is True.

Washington, August 27.—"The war is over," said Prudencio Lazcano, the Chilian minister to the United Press representative, commenting on the cable dispatch from the Chilian minister of foreign affairs.

Senor Pazano wore a contented expression upon his determined face, while his handsome wife, who acts as his interpreter, beamed with enthusiasm and joy over the happy result.

The war began more than six months ago, Senor Pazano explained, and the insurgents were led by Col. Canto, who had been dismissed from the Chilian army. He had succeeded in securing the Chilian navy, and on this account had been able, until now, to maintain his army.

The Chilian government had no navy, and because of this disadvantage, had been unable to hem in the insurgents. "Had we had war ships," said Senor Pazano, tracing the positions of the government and insurgents forces on the rough map he had drawn so as to more explicitly explain himself, "we would have succeeded long ago."

He then traced the positions of the Chilian government, under command of General Velarquez, the present minister of war, and who distinguished himself in the war betweien Chili and Peru ten years ago.

At Coquimbo, on the northern coast of Chila, 10,000 government troops were stationed. At Santiago, 12,000 troops were in garrison, while below at Concepcion, 10,000 men were under arms.

To the left of Concepcion, an army of 9,000 men were rendezvoused. Between Santiago and Quinteros, just above the Aconcagua river, the insurgents, under Col. Canto, landed 10,000 men. Under protection from their ships, the insurgents moved down the coast towards Valparaiso.

At the Aconcagua river the insurgents were met by a force of 5,000 men from the government army which had moved up from the left of Concepcion. This force held the insurgents at bay for 30 hours.

In the meantime, the government forces at Santiago, Concepcion and Coquimbo moved down, hemmed in the insurgents and compelled the unconditional surrender of the insurgents. As Senor Lazcano, in an off-hand manner, described how the war was brought to a close, he naturally became exuberant with joy, and as he hesitated for words to express, in broken English, his ideas, his wife, who was enraptured with his warlike description, would fill in the interstices.

The minister sent a number of telegrams this morning, spreading far and wide the glad tidings of the victory of the Chilian government.

The dispatch received here by the Chilian minister, announcing the defeat of the insurgents at Vina Del Mar, was shown to Mr. Foster, one of the insurgent representatives, this morning, and that gentleman was asked if he had heard anything from his party. He replied that he had received the following cablegram from their agent late last night:

"Iuqueque, Aug. 26.—Notices inspired by the dictator's agents in Lima absolutely without authorization.

"(Signed) Errazuriz."

This, Mr. Foster said, probably referred to the reported defeat of his party.

"I do not say that the dispatch received by the Chilian minister is not correct," he continued, "but I think that in case the battle had been fought on the 25th and won by Balmaceda, he would not have delayed so long in spreading the news."

Mr. Foster also took into consideration that the forces of Balmaceda outnumbered those of the insurgents, but said that in case the insurgent party was defeated, it only meant a prolongation of the war, and that the insurgent force would be increased in every possible way, and the dictator fought to the end.

Mr. Foster momentarily expects additional advices from his party.

'WAY OFF ON FACTS.

The Blade Makes Correction Which Does Not Correct.

The Blade last evening attempted to make a correction of the article published the evening before, reporting an alleged conversation in Police Clerk Fogarty's office. Officer O'Brien and Mr. Fogarty and others deny the whole matter. The Blade stated that a policeman said "that last Sunday he knew of four patrolmen who sat around a table in a saloon drinking beer, with their uniforms on. He did not say whether they were on duty at the time or not."

The facts regarding this are that Judge Sala made the remark that some one told him that an officer had gone into a saloon and stayed there some time.

A remark is also quoted from Officer Coakley, when that gentleman was not in the office at the time.

Regarding the remark made by Officer O'Brien, the following card will explain itself:

"The statement in the Blade regarding a conversation in the police clerk's office is entirely false from beginning to end and a malicious lie. The remark that, 'If we enforce the law, off goes our heads,' was not made, and I did not say, 'That's right, we are obeying the orders given to us.' T. O'BRIEN."

Let Ohio Workingmen Remember.

The McKinley organs in Chicago are now trying to break the force of the disclosures relative to the pauper wages paid in the clothing industry in this city by declaring that similar labor in London, Paris, Vienna and Rome is paid no better.

So it comes to that, does it? After the people of the United States have been taxed thousands of millions to enrich a few protected interests on the false pretense that such taxation was necessary to maintain wages, they make the discovery that women in Chicago are working on pantaloons, coats, vests and cloaks for 40 cents a day, and when they express surprise and indignation they are coolly asked if the people engaged in the same lines in European cities are any better paid.

It will occur to some intelligent Americans, no doubt, that this is not the question. The millions of plunder exacted by the tariff beneficiaries are demanded on the promise that they will divide the spoil with their employes. They do not do it. They pocket it. They hire their labor in the cheapest market. They sell their products in a tariff-cornered market for two prices.

Let the people remember that the best the clothing protects have to offer in palliation of their starvation wages in Chicago is the assertion that similar pauper laborers in Europe receive no more.—Chicago Herald.

To Make Perfect.

IN EVERY Receipt that calls for baking powder, use the "Royal." Better results will be obtained because it is the purest. It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor, more digestible and wholesome. It is always reliable and uniform in its work.

MISS MARIA PARLOA says: "The Royal Baking Powder is as good as any can be. I have used it a great deal and always with satisfaction."

HUMAN NATURE.

Curious Phases of It That Bob Up at the Summer Resort, and You Can Catch It If You Have a Kodak.

It was a favorite adage of Napoleon's that "Human nature is always and everywhere the same." It is certainly pretty much the same, year after year, at the different places of summer resort. There is your invalid, for example, to whom no topic is interesting that does not treat of the condition of his tongue and stomach, sitting on the sunny side of the piazza, buttoned up to his chin, in a chair that rests like his constitution, on its hind legs. He pounces on unhappy listeners, and bores them, always and everywhere the same, with minute descriptions of his ailments.

Then there is the country clergyman, who came to be jolly, and fain would be so; but, before he can make up his mind to it, must settle the important question whether rolling pins would be considered a sacerdotal act by Deacon Grime of his parish, and whether he ought to countenance, by his presence in the ladies' parlor, any song but "Hark from the tombs a doleful sound."

There is the bachelor, who knows the flirtation ropes; and though he has no objections to carry a young lady's shawl or parasol, also carries a rhinocerous hide over his heart, from which little arrows glance harmless, though ever so skillfully aimed from ribbon, slipper or curl.

There is your widow, cultivated, refined, intelligent, self-respecting; yet fettered in every word and action by the knowledge that every person in the house imagines that her earliest and latest thoughts are employed in the construction of adroit-mantraps.

There is grandma—dear, saintly grandma—who, in her best cap and gown, sits hour after hour on the same rocking chair in the ladies' parlor, watching the tide of life as it ebbs and flows past her, well pleased to be spared the petty strife for place and power, and smiling benignly on young and old, as if to say: "Some day you, like me, will be glad to rest; meantime, my dears, get all you can out of it!"

And here is our belle—blonde or brunette,, it matters not—with her wonderous changes of rainbow raiment, languishing or lively, as best suits her style, angling for admiration, with hook and line skillfully concealed, but none the less effective; beautiful as a dream, and, like a dream, very unsatisfactory to the wideawade; numbering her victims by the thousand, and knowing nothing more earnest in life than a perfect toilet and an intoxicated adorer.

From the tip of her wicked little slipper to her pearl of an ear she is but a mockery and a snare.

Then there is the wife who has waited weary weeks for the arrival of her husband, and now he's coming! She is a plain little woman, judging her artistically; and yet to-night her face is quite beautiful with the illumination of love.

She has a natural flower in her hair, and her little girl has on her best dress; and all the guest feel a personal interest in that stranger husband's arrival, and listen anxiously like herself, for the coming of the train, as she paces up and down the piazza, too restless to sit still.

Now, if he should not come after all! Wouldn't he deserve lynching? That is the universal verdict. But he has come! "Papa! papa!—John! John!"

It is dark at the station, but that kiss was heard; and all went their separate ways satisfied, now justice had been done. Human love, imperfect as it is, is a beautiful thing. Husband! wife! child! these ties, after all, are life.

May Have Been Suicide.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—William Weinberg, aged 33, who came here from Baltimore two weeks ago, was found dead in his room at the Hotel Hanover yesterday afternoon. His death has been caused by inhaling gas, and the conditions indicated suicide. No papers were found that would throw any light on Weinberg's history or indicate why he suicided. The body was removed to the morgue where an inquest will be held.

Despair not, neither man nor maid,
Although your mouth has suffered ill,
Although your teeth are half decayed,
You can still save them, if you will.
A little SOZODONT be sure
Will make all balmy, bright and pure.

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

COSTIVENESS

If not relieved by judicious and timely treatment, is liable to result in chronic constipation. As an aperient that may be used with perfect safety and satisfaction, Ayer's Pills are unsurpassed. Unlike most cathartics, these pills, while they relax and cleanse, exert a tonic influence on the stomach, liver, and bowels, causing these organs to perform their functions with healthy regularity and comfort. Being purely vegetable and free from mineral or drug of any kind, their use is not attended with injurious effects. Good for old and young of every climate, Ayer's Pills are everywhere the favorite. G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main street, Carlisle, Pa., says: "Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. I would not willingly be without them."

UNREASONABLE.

'Twas by an Adirondack pond
She vetoed all my protests fond;
I loved her wildly, madly,
She seemed so pretty, sweet and good;
A modern naiad of the wood:
I thought she'd used me badly.

I had proposed in proper form:
The clouds were gathered for a storm;
Her "No!" outweighed the thunder.
And then, beneath her quivering lash,
A glance shown like the lightning's flash,
And held me fixed in wonder.

I dared to read its meaning clear,
Despair gave way to hopeful fear;
My head was in a whirl.
She smiled: "Dear Jack, if you remember,
Ask me again in next December,
I am no 'Summer Girl'"

The freight movement in the United States may be simply expressed by saying it is equal to 200,000,000 tons hauled one mile each day of the year.

The census men found in the United States 1,056,750 horses; 2,296,532 mules; 16,019,591 cows; 36,875,658 oxen and cattle; 43,431,136 sheep; 50,625,106 swine.

Six years ago there was not a single electric launch on the Thames. At the Henley regatta recently no fewer that 16 were counted by an interested observer.

The Thomson-Houston factory at Lynn has a room set aside for an electrical museum. There are in the collection no fewer than 100 different kinds of arc lamps.

A Chicago man has invented an automatic motor starter by which all the motors at the fair may be started by the president in Washington by simply pressing a button.

Railroad managers prefer to graduate their firemen into locomotive engineers rather than take drivers from another road. Three years service as a stoker is regarded as a minimum requirement.

At the plant of the Pittsburg Reduction company, where the output of aluminium is about 500 pounds a day of twenty-four hours, the electrical machinery was recently run continuously for four months.

Arc lights on a sugar plantation for the hauling of the crops by night have been placed in position by Planter H. C. Minor, in Louisiana. He will cut over 1,100 acres of cane and has a plant of 70 2,000-candle power arc lamps.

Stock cars are now built with gates to cross platforms, after the fashion of the vestibule trains. In this way the stock are loaded at one chute and "move up forward, please," until the entire train is filled.

The story told years ago of the discovery of an ancient ship on the sands of the Great American Desert is now revived, with the addition that it is afloat on the waters of the new inland sea forming there from an eruption of the Colorado river.

A model of the Chicago fair is on exhibition in that city. It covers an area of 3,680 square feet. It is brilliantly illuminated with electricity, the lights on the cascades and fountains changing automatically every 20 minutes in a novel and interesting way.

"General," the famous locomotive of the old Western & Atlantic line captured by Andrews' raiders at Big Shanty and recaptured the same day at Ringgold, is to grace the capitol grounds of Georgia by resolution of the legislature. The old balloon stack will be replaced and the old style look restored.

The salt sea that once covered what is now the Yuma desert bore oysters fourteen inches in diameter, according to their shells. Pliny says that Alexander's expedition discovered oysters twelve inches in diameter in the Indian sea, and twelve-inch bivalves are now found near Port Lincoln, in Australia.

About two hundred municipalities in England and Wales manufacture their own gas, and cities like Manchester and Birmingham receive a profit from the business of from $200,000 to $250,000. The public water works yield a surplus of $7,500,000 above expenses.

The fair building at Chicago is to have a steel chimney 250 feet high. It is calculated to weigh, built up with fire brick and tile, 350 tons, against a weight of 700 tons for a similar brick chimney. It can also be built quicker and its cost is about 60 per cent of a brick construction.

The Rush street draw bridge in Chicago is now operated by electricity. A 40 ton steam plant perched over the center of the roadway has been discarded and a wire from the station a mile and a half away comes underground to the bridge. The draw is 240 feet long and 50 wide, resting upon a turn-table 48 feet in diameter.

Congressman Dockery, of Missouri, has spent his summer vacation in performing the duties of highway overseer for Davies county. Dressed in a suit of cast-off clothing, with dinner pail in hand, he went to his work every morning at 6 and stuck to it until 6 at night. He received no remuneration for his self-imposed task, and lost 15 pounds of flesh.

A Kansas City man refused to pay a plumbing company's bill on the ground that the latter was a member of a plumber's association formed to keep up prices. He was sustained by a judge, under the Missouri trust law, which provides that a contract with a company belonging to a combination to govern prices is not valid.

The "baby carrier" is a most ingenious and useful little article, in reality a miniature hammock, which can be fastened round the neck at various heights by strong hooks. The baby being placed inside, the hands of the nurse are left perfectly free, the arms are saved from any strain or subsequent aching, and perfect comfort and safety are insured for the child.

Mr. Lowell always parted his hair in the middle and adopted the custom long before it became an Angiomaniac affection. He was as courteous to a beggar as to a lord, and was once observed holding a long conversation in Italian with an organ grinder whom he was questioning about scenes in Italy that they were each familiar with.

The death of Matsada Sorakichi, the powerful Japanese wrestler, from consumption, furnishes a good text for those who are beginning to preach against the intemperance of athletes. Ask the medical examiner of your life insurance company how many athletes he has been forced to reject because of enlargement of the heart or other defects resulting from over-indulgence in physical training, and the reply will surprise you.

Congressman Milliken, of Maine, has a young son who gives promise of being a politician one of these days. Recently the Sunday school teacher gave him a piece to recite, but he made no progress in committing it to memory, and the teacher finally said: 'Well, you may take the piece home and let your father teach it to you, as he is a fine stump orator." The boy hesitated, but finally replied: "Yes, father may be a good stump speaker, but he doesn't know anything about Sunday schools."

Statistics gathered by Mr. Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central railroad, upon the ownership of railroad stock, covers over 80,000 miles, or about one-half the entire mileage of the country. He finds that out of a total stock capital of $1,875,260,877 reported, but $205,683,183 is held in the states where the roads are located, and that in number of stockholders 33,234 out of a total of 131,228 reside in the states where the roads are operated. In some of the western states the amount of home held stock is very small. Kansas has 87 per cent, New Mexico 25, Nebraska 18, Nevada 20 and Wisconsin 22, all less than 1 per cent of the stock reported.

The women-knitters of the island of Shetland produce marvellously beautiful work. A very fine long shawl, weighing only 2¾ ounces, was sold at Lerwick last year for $75. A choice collection of knit goods, the finest ever produced in the islands, was presented to the Princess of Wales on the occasion of her marriage. One's enjoyment of the exquisitely fine work is considerably marred, however, by knowledge of the fact that the cruel custom of pulling out the fleece from the sheep by the root is still practiced in Shetland. The finest wool is obtained in this way, and the secretary of the long-named society should seek out the men who practice this savage custom, which is called "rueing."

POINTS FROM PUTNAM.

Ottawa is Pushing to the Front.

The Introduction of Natural Gas Booms Business—New School Building, New Railroad and New Bridge.

Ottawa, O., Aug. 27.—(Special)—An impetus has been given to every kind of industry here by the introduction of natural gas. The municipality has turned over its leases and plant to J. F. Cover, who binds himself to furnish gas to consumers at prices to be fixed by the city authorities. Mains have been laid from the wells located about four miles from town, and the lines in the streets will be laid by September 1. The three wells have an output of 2,000,000 cubic feet a day, and the town has a large tract of valuable gas territory.

The Ottawa Gas company, after struggling through a series of mishaps and misfortunes, has gone into the hands of a receiver. L. M. Ludwig has been appointed receiver, and he will pull the institution through if any one can. He is a hustler.

The new public school building, which is being erected at a cost of $25,000, is away up above the foundation and when finished will be one of the handsomest buildings of the kind in the state. The increasing population of the place makes a larger school building an absolute necessity.

Schoolhouses and railroads, it is said, are the adverse agents of civilization. Ottawa has secured a new railroad as well as a new schoolhouse. The Findlay, Fort Wayne & Western has at last reached here, and the town is literally full of railroad laborers, and the laborers get full, and consequently the caboose is full, too. See? This influx of strangers has given the alleged murderer, Roberts, considerable company in the county jail. The caboose could not hold all the boosers, and therefore the jail is being utilized.

The new road, by the way, made connections with the Clover Leaf a few days ago, and this centralization of railroads here cannot help but benefit the town very much.

The new bridge is another feature which shows the progress the town is making. It will cost about $15,000, and promises to be a handsome structure.

Peter Donnelly, formerly of the Toledo Furniture company, Toledo, has gone into partnership with Mr. May, of this place, and together they will erect and run a planing mill six miles west of here, on the line of the new railroad. Mr. Donnelly's family, who still reside in Toledo, will move here in a week or two. Peter is a hustling young business man, and what is Toledo's loss has been our gain.

One source of Ottawa's prosperity is the rattling good newspapers she has got. Kinder, of the Sentinel, is not only a splendid all-round newspaper man, but he is possessed of great business sagacity and no little executive ability. It is such men who build up towns. Tingle, of the Columbus Grove Vidette, is a frequent visitor here and he has made an enviable reputation as a hustling newspaper man in working up the Columbus Grove murder case. His paper never gets left.

J. F. Cover's new residence, upon which quite a number of Toledo mechanics are now at work, will be one of the handsomest dwellings in northwestern Ohio.

Notwithstanding the recent death of Mr. Leopold, the old reliable Leopold house continues to run under its old manager—Mr. George Craig, one of the squarest men and truest democrats in the county.

Ottawa does not like this idea of blowing her own bugle, but strangers do not find our burg a bad place to live in and do business in.

OTTAWA'S NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

Colonization of Negroes.

Guthrie, Okla., Aug. 27.—A movement is on foot to colonize with negroes the Indian lands which are soon to be thrown open to a general settlement. It has its origin at Langston City, the metropolis of the negro settlement not far from here. The agents, 850 in number, of the Langston Colonization society, are now laboring in the southern states to persuade negroes to come to the new country. Hundreds of negroes have already gone to Langston, and are being cared for there by their colored friends until the time for the invasion arrives. Many negroes are arriving daily, and by the time the lands are proclaimed open to settlement it is believed thousands of colored people will have arrived here.

New Corporations.

Columbus, Aug. 27.—The following articles of incorporations were filed in the office of the secretary of state to-day: The Xenia Butter and Cheese Manufacturing company, Xenia, capital stock $10,000; the Marysville Manufacturing company, Marysville, capital stock, $4,000; the Fostick & Plucker Machine Tool company, Cincinnati, capital stock, $40,000; the J. A. Sommers Manufacturing company, Hamilton, increase of capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000; the Circleville Light and Power company, Circleville, capital stock, $100,000.

Ohio Man Found Dead in California.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—John M. Davis, a stranger from Ohio, was found dead at the New England lodging house in Los Angeles. Papers showed that he was a veteran of the Thirty-sixth Ohio Volunteers, a famous regiment at one time commanded by Colonel George Crook. No valuables were found on the person of the deceased, but his honorable discharge and his pension papers were found in his valise. It is not known what part of Ohio he came from.

Will Collect the Duties.

New York, Aug. 27.—The custom house authorities will collect duties on the yacht Conquerer, which was imported by Frederick W. Vanderbilt, some time ago. Officers have been sent out to look for the boat and she will be seized. Mr. Vanderbilt intends to take the case into court and fight the government on the point of its rights to collect duties on his yacht. If duties are finally collected, he will have to pay about $35,000.

Evidence of Murder.

Ocala, Fla., Aug. 17.—The body of a colored man, supposed to be George Williams, was found near Belleview yesterday morning. He had evidently been murdered, as there was a pistol shot wound through his heart. There is no clue to the murderer but it is thought the negro desperado, Murray, committed the crime.

Pennsylvania Prohibitionists

Harrisburg, Aug. 27.—The State prohibition convention met in this city. W. W. Hague, of Warren was nominated for auditor general by acclamation, and George Drayton, of Media, was nominated for state treasurer.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Exercises at the District Convention.

The annual conference of the Epworth League of this district was held yesterday at the Clark Street M. E. church, East Toledo, Rev. Parker P. Pope, presiding. The morning was taken up with opening exercises, some reports and the appointment of committees, after which the delegates partook of a splendid dinner served by the ladies of the Bethany society.

After dinner the committee on nomination reported as follows and the committee's recommendation was carried out: President, Rev. P. P. Pope; first vice president, Miss Emma Myers; second vice president, J. R. Wetmore; secretary, A. B. Hood: treasurer, Miss Mattie Rymers. Directors—James L. Stark, Rev. M. T. Ayers, Miss Anna Johnson.

In the afternoon numerous papers were read and themes discussed, all of which will result in good for those participating.

After supper a consecration meeting was led by Mr. H. B. Hood. Rev. Baumgardner made a talk on "The League and Other Young People's Societies," Rev. J. C. Shaw discussed an "Ideal League," and the Orio quartet furnished some excellent music.

Nex year's meeting will be held at Perrysburg.

SONS OF AMERICA.

The Color Line Question a Source of Trouble.

Officers Nominated for the Ensuing Year — The General Discussion.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—The session of the National Camp Patriotic Order Sons of America, was a secret one. The question of admitting colored members into the order consumed the entire morning.

A number of ballots were taken, but each one resulted the same, 59 in favor of the admittance of colored members and 31 against it. Most of the opposition to the eliminating of the word "white" from the constitution comes from the delegates from Illinois and Ohio, who voted as a unit against it.

A four-fifths vote of the entire convention is necessary to make any alterations in the constitution of the order.

The importance of the question before the convention, the breaking down of the color line, to which the order has steadily adhered, was plainly evidenced by the full attendance of the delegates.

The question came up on a motion to strike out the word "white" in the consituation relating to the qualification of members. Common Councillor Stephen B. Gibson, of the Seventh ward, and a member of Washington Camp, No. 579, of this city, composed of colored men, was accorded privileges of the floor, and for one hour made a powerful and eloquent appeal for the recognition of his race.

The sentiment of the convention was strongly in favor of admission, the Pennsylvania delegation being unanimous in the colored man's favor, but an arbitrary clause in the constitution requiring a for-fifths vote to annul or change the constitution enabled the opponents to defeat the measure.

A vote on the motion found 64 in favor and 34 against, but before the result was announced two members who voted in the affirmative changed their vote from yea to nay in order to enable them to vote for a reconsideration.

Prominent among those who spoke eloquently in favor of the colored man's admission were J. H. Williams, of Colorado: Col. Robertson, of Illinois; ex-Congressman Brumm, of Schuylkill county; and against admission Dr. E. P. Murdoch, of Chicago, and J. A. Kilton, of Colorado.

During the progress of the debate a telegram from New Orleans was received which conveyed the sentiment of the Louisianans on the subject. The dispatch which was signed by the officers of the state encampment, read:

"We wire that the national encampment at least postpone action on the color question another year. Further discussion will bring more light and better understanding on the real conditions, south, to our brethren of the north, who can then act more advisedly."

At the evening session a motion to reconsider the question of admitting colored men was made, but was lost. The tabling of the motion without a vote was the work of members in favor of admitting colored members who by this device left the question still open.

There were discussions on changes to the constitution and the ritual.

The following nominations of officers were made: National president, George P. Smith, Colorado, and G. F. Hutton, Pennsylvania; national vice president, J. H. Williams, Colorado; master of forms, C. M. Reed, New Jersey; M. S. Evans, Kansas, and H. O. Kutz, Ohio; secretary, F. E. Steise, Pennsylvania, and F. W. Hendlep, Ohio; assistant secretary, C. M. Taylor, Pennsylvania; treasurer, J. H. Hoffer, Pennsylvania; chairman, Rev. J. B. May, Pennsylvania; conductors, J. H. Kilton, Colorado, P. C. Hess, Ohio; inspector, J. H. Hughes; past guard, Dr. W. A. Foss, Missouri. Adjourned.

HALLEN AND HART

Will Have a Strong Piece at Wheeler's To-Morrow and Saturday Evenings.

There are good times ahead for the theater-goers in the performance announced for the Wheeler to-morrow and Saturday evenings. Hallen and Hart, two of the most successful of all of those who have devoted their talents purely to arce comedy, will present their new version of the famous skit, Later On. These capable fun makers are now so well known and liked that no special flattery is necessary to attract general interest. Aside from their own individual merits, they have always surrounded themselves with the cleverest of performers and singers with the result of an entertainment that has always been a success. This year they are said to have added to the many bright numbers of the variegated piece of last year, with a view of making an even greater success of their cherished skit, Later On.

The company numbers 22 people, all of whom can sing, dance and entertain. The costumes are new and attractive in design, the girls who form the chorus have been chosen with a regard to looks as well as voice, and nearly, if not quite all the music, songs and dances are original, and presented for the first time this season. An attractive musical novelty will be a gavotte in which the dance is directed by singing birds. The birds are not actual songsters of flesh and blood, but their counterfeits in mechanical shapes, with remarkable imitations of voice. It is a strong show and sure to gather a rousing house.

THE PERSECUTED JEWS.

Meeting in Their Interest Last Night.

Addresses by Revs. Sloan and Bacon, Prof. Veyzey and Others—Another Meeting Soon to be Held.

The second meeting of those interested in the work of offering assistance to the persecuted Jews of Russia was held last night at the First Baptist church. The attendance was not as large as the importance of the subject under discussion merited.

After the usual opening exercises, Rev. W. H. Sloan in a short address stated the deep interest he and his congregation felt, as to the manner in which the Jews were being treated by the Russian government to-day. He also spoke of the great interest the United States, as a government, was taking in the subject, and of the most important events in history relating to the Jewish nation.

Mr. Sloan, as chairman of the meeting, next introduced Rev. Dr. Bacon.

Dr. Bacon stated that he was not prepared to give a long speech on the subject, but he very ably discussed the main part of the question, and gave some good illustrations of the harshness and severity of the treatment of the Jews by Russia, and expressed his strongest sympathies for them. Dr. Bacon said he was willing to do all he could for them, if he knew what to do.

Prof. Veyzey was next called upon, and by the use of his maps and notes showed to what extent the Jews were being handled by Russia. Prof. Veyzey being the best informed on the subject, was able to bring to the attention of the audience the vast amount of suffering among the Jews.

He told of how the press, platform, pulpit and public had taken hold of the question, and of what grand work was being done all over the country for the restoration of Israel.

Dr. Pooley next spoke, and expressed himself against the czar and government of Russia. He felt a great interest in the Jewish nation, and told the audience that he would lend a helping hand in any manner possible.

It was expected that Rabbi Browne would be present to address the meeting, but he could not attend, and his absence was regretted by all.

Mr. Kraus, chairman of the committee in this city, thanked Mr. Sloan for use of his church, and the speakers and the audience for their attention and interest in the meeting.

After the close of the meeting a small sum of money was handed to Mr. Sloan for the purpose of aiding the cause.

Quite a number of prominent citizens of Toledo are taking an interest in these meetings, and arrangements are being made for a large public meeting in the near future.

Donation to Yale.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 27.—Mrs. H. L Hotchkiss has presented $275,000 to the Yale preparatory school, which she founded. In addition to this gift, Mrs. Hotchkiss has given the school 75 acres of land. Seventy-five thousand dollars of the cash gift will be expended upon a building, and the remainder will be used as an endowment fund for professorship, etc.

Have Left Bar Harbor.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 27.—The north Atlantic squadron, Admiral Gherardi commanding, sailed from this port last night for New London. The white squadron will remain here until Monday. The Despatch, with Secretary Tracy on board, sails this morning.

Result of a Family Quarrel.

New York, Aug. 27.—Henry Miller shot and seriously wounded his wife and mother-in-law at Great Neck, Long Island, Tuesday evening and then shot himself. The women's wounds are not fatal, but Miller will probably die. The refusal of his wife to live with him was the cause of the tragedy.

Legal Notice.

Thomas D. Gleason, whose place of residence is unknown, and Sarah A. Gleason, whose place of residence is Chicago, in the State of Illinois, will each take notice that Charles A. Vordtriede, as Auditor of Lucas county, Ohio, for the use of original township number one (1) of the United States Reserve of twelve (12) miles square at the foot of the Rapids of the Miami of Lake Erie, in Lucas county, Ohio, filed his petition against him and others in the Court of Common Pleas of Lucas county, Ohio, on the 23d day of May, A. D. 1891, being case No. 31909, setting forth in said petition that section number sixteen (16), in said township, reserve, county and state, was granted by the Congress of the United States for school purposes. That said section had been subdivided into lots and lots six (6) and seven (7) thereof had been sold to the defendant Thomas D. Gleason, who agreed to pay therefor the sum of seven thousand nine hundred thirty-one and 45-100 dollars. That certain payments had been made thereon and that there was now due and unpaid from said Thomas D. Gleason for said lots of land, the sum of eleven thousand nine hundred seventy-three and 90-100 dollars, with interest thereon from March 20, 1891. That said defendant Sarah A. Gleason, is the wife of said Thomas D. Gleason. Said petition prays for a judgment in favor of said Charles A. Vordtriede, for the use of said original township number one (1), against said Thomas D. Gleason, for said sum of eleven thousand nine hundred seventy-three and 90-100 dollars, with interest from March 20, 1891. Also prays for an order for the sale of said above described real estate with all improvements thereon, as upon execution at law, and the proceeds of said sale applied in satisfaction of such judgment as provided by statute.

Said defendants are required to answer said petition on or before the 17th day of October, A. D. 1891, or judgment will be taken against them.
CHARLES A. VORDTRIEDE,

City Auditor's Office.

TOLEDO, O., August 6, 1891.

THE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned, invite sealed proposals at this office, to

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1891,

at 7 o'clock p m, for the purchase of street improvement bonds to the amount of sixteen hundred and fifty 45-100 ($1,650 45-100) dollars, bearing date Aug. 17, 1891, and payable as follows: One hundred and sixty-five 45-100 dollars on Feb 17, 1892, and one hundred and sixty-five dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including Aug. 17, 1896; at the office of the city treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, "to provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Ontario street, from Cherry street to Orange street,"—passed July 27, 1891.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $165.45, and thereafter one of $165 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the Bonds besides the accrued Interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the Bonds so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the Law and Ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to Law, all moneys or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the Bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the City of Toledo, and shall become the property of said City, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said Bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the City of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for Improvement Bonds."

W. T. WALKER,
City Auditor.

TOLEDO REAL ESTATE.

Quietness Still Pervades the City Market,

Though Activity is Looked for Shortly.

Dealers Talk on Annexation—Transfers of the Week—In Building and Loan Circles.

Real estate is picking up, there being more business transacted this week than in any other two weeks of July and August. This is the beginning of what will, no doubt, be the most prosperous fall Toledo has experienced in years.

Dealers report a lively inquiry, which of itself devoid of profit, but is the forerunner of what is to come. The Recorder's office shows treble the amount of business this week, than has been filed in two months.

As to Annexation.

The question of annexing the suburbs to Toledo, which has been introduced in the council, is going to give rise to some lively times when the project once gets under way. In conversation with a Bee on the subject, A. D. Stewart said:

"I am not in favor of taking in too much suburban property. It would be very proper to take in Auburndale, which I think would be a valuable addition to Toledo. The place has grown from a grocery store to a flourishing village, and will always remain as such unless annexed to Toledo. As long as it is Auburndale the real estate will command Auburndale prices, while, if it should become a part of Toledo, it comes in for its share of the improvements and the increase in value therefrom. This will amply reimburse the increased rate of taxation. The one great advantage will be the public school facilities, to say nothing of fire and police protection. On the other hand, Toledo will pay for all this and receive in return the difference in the rates of taxation. The way I look at it, there is nothing to be gained or lost by the transaction."

R. D. McCaskey, speaking on the same subject, said: "I don't think it a safe or proper move to make. It might be well enough to admit Auburndale and West Toledo, but no more."

"Why do you favor one or two, and not all?"

"For the reason that there is more vacant property within the corporation of Toledo now than will be built up for years to come. If there is any more new territory taken in, it will increase the rates of taxation, and when this is done it will only create a disposition on the part of landowners to plat their property and place it on the market. It will only be extending the city farther into the country, which is an impediment to the further building up and settlement of the more central portions of the city. If Auburndale and West Toledo should be taken in, it would be for the interest and welfare of the residents, as they would derive the benefits of our splendid schools, and many other advantages of which they are deprived under the existing state of affairs."

Business Opening Up.

"Business has been much better this week than any week during July and August," said F. B. Losee to a Bee, "and I feel certain that it is going to improve from now on. Inquiry has been excellent. Scarcely a day has passed but what there has been several parties in my office looking up some property. Of course it is all confined to lots for immediate use, which, however, makes just as good business if there is enough of it as an occasional big deal. Dealers anticipate big business this fall, and I think they have good reasons for it."

Building Inspector Needed.

It is a well-known fact that Toledo stands in dire need of a building inspector, building board, fire marshal, or some official, or body, empowered with the authority to inspect the plans and specifications of buildings erected in Toledo.

This necessity is apparent in the number of shaky and unsafe buildings which have been erected within the fire limits of the city the last two years.

Toledo is the only city in the country that is wholly indifferent to the class of buildings erected within the boundaries of the fire limit.

"A building board or fire commission is as essential to the welfare and better interests of a city as its legislative body," said E. O. Fallis, the architect, to a Bee, "and, in my opinion, Toledo should have officials authorized to look after the buildings by all means. It is a shame that the city is so careless about the buildings that are erected. There are other points in connection with the construction of a building aside from the material used, and they are plumbing and sewerage. Maintaining the good health of a community should be first and foremost in the minds of officials of any city. I think Cincinnati's manner of looking after the buildings is productive of the most good. Affairs are conducted by a board, which inspects the plans of every building erected within the corporation lines of the city and must be approved by this board before the contractor can begin work."

Said Mr. Bacon, of Bacon & Huber: "There should most certainly be a building inspector in Toledo. After we have a big fire and the true condition of some of the buildings in the city is exposed, steps will, perhaps, be taken that will be conducive of better and more substantial building. If there were some official whose duty it was to inspect all plans and specifications before a building was put up, and allow nothing but solid, substantial structures to be erected, it would be better for Toledo. The plumbing and sewerage should receive attention as well as the building proper."

In Building and Loan Circles.

There has been very little doing with regard to building within the past two months, for the simple reason that there has been no money to build with. The associations have acted on very few loans as the receipts of money scarcely warrant the sale of large amounts. Money has loosened up considerable within the last week, and the effect will be to revive building quite vigorously. It is anticipated by contractors that there will be more buildings erected during September and October than the other months of the season combined.

New Additions.

Ten more additions were added to the long list, this week.

Radcliff's Bancroft street addition is laid out in that part of the Seventh ward which lies on Bancroft street between Elm and Chestnut street. The property is divided into 13 lots, 139.5 feet long and 35.25 feet wide.

Dawson's addition lies between Dort and Missouri streets. It embraces 30 lots 30 feet wide and 140 feet long.

Canadian Population.

Montreal, Aug. 27.—The census returns which will be submitted at Ottawa indicate a population of about 6,000,000 for the entire dominion. All the provinces show gains except the Prince Edward island, Quebec and New Brunswick, which show a decrease. Manitoba has grown from 60,000 to 150,000 in ten years, and Winnipeg from 8,000 to 26,000. All cities in the dominion show gains but many of the country districts show losses.

Justice Allen Will Fight.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 27.—Justice J. A. Allen, who was arrested, charged with betrayal on complaint of Miss Lizzie Robinson, has employed W. S. Anderson and Gen. Jones as his counsel, and a vigorous defense will be made, the accused earnestly protesting his innocence of the serious charge and asserting that other parties will be arrested that will cause a sensation.

Looks Like Suicide.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 27.—Silva Miller, a 16-year-old girl, died suddenly at her home in this city last night under circumstances that lead to the belief that she committed suicide. By request of the girl's mother an examination was not made. A love affair, in which the girl is implicated, is alleged to have something to do with her sudden death.

Cruelty to Animals.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 27.—Secretary of Legation Manuel Senoa was arrested yesterday on complaint of Rev. W. H. Burlew for having driven a horse in a hard and cruel manner. The mayor, at the request of the Spanish consul at Philadelphia, allowed the secretary to go on his own recognizance.

Can't Work Longer.

Columbus, Aug. 27.—State Factory Inspector McDonald has issued orders for the discharge of 24 minors under 16 years of age from the Union Steel Screw works, of Cleveland. All are females and are operating machinery which is dangerous.

Drowned in Deep Sea.

Ashtabula, O., Aug. 27.—John Bradley, aged 13 years, was swimming in the river in company with several other boys late yesterday afternoon, and getting out in deep water, known as the "devil's hole," was drowned.

Dr. Sinclair Ill.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Dr. Sinclair, chief of the consular bureau of the United States, is very ill at the Hotel Frontenac.

There is no one article in the line of medicine that gives so large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Plasters.

WHAT IS LUCK, ANYHOW?

Two Stories That Show a Few of Its Remarkable Phases—The Word Still Looking for a Definition.

For the benefit of those who believe in that mysterious factor called luck, and for the consideration of those who do not, I venture to set down these two true little stories, both of which came in my own experience:

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were a brave, honest couple with a steadily increasing family and a steadily decreasing purse. For the first 15 years of their life together they met with misfortune after misfortune, from death to robbery, and last April they found themselves compelled to move out of the pleasant house in which they had started housekeeping because they could no longer afford to pay the rent.

They went on any number of househunting trips, but found only one house that pleased them. But $75 per month was its rental and that was way beyond the figure they had set. Still the cheaper houses were abominations in their sight, and they kept looking at their choice until three days before the 1st of May, when the agent informed them that he had received orders to let it go at $50 per month for a year.

They closed the bargain at once and moved in joyfully, although they could not help contrasting their superannuated furniture with the hardwood trimmings and stained glass of their new home.

One week later the owner of the house traded it for a Long Island country place, and it came into the hands of a Colorado man who was anxious to realize on his eastern investments and get back home.

He called on his tenants a few days later and offered to sell them the house for $8,000 cash. The house cost $12,000 to build, and the Smith's gasped as they thought of the bargain, but as their cash capital would not buy more than one chimney they firmly but respectfully declined the offer.

At breakfast the very next morning the postman came around with a letter from Mrs. Smith's father asking her to sign a petition for a settlement of her mother's estate, over which there had been a fierce family squabble for 10 years.

She signed the petition and announced a willingness to bury the hatchet, which brought a letter from her brother offering her $3,000 for her share of the property. She jumped at the offer, saw the owner of the house, borrowed $5,000 on a mortgage, and held the title deeds to her residence in short order.

Ten days later she received a long blue envelope which contained the news that an aunt in Kansas had died and left her $10,000. When she recovered from the shock she paid off the mortgage, bought a new house, and opened a nice little bank account.

Before the month of June ended Mr. Smith secured a patent on an invention on which he had been working for years, and was taken in as a full partner in a big manufacturing firm as a return for the sole use of it.

So inside of 60 days this chain of events raised the Smith family from genteel poverty to almost affluence.

Mr. Jones was an industrious jeweler who possessed a cheery wife, a musical daughter and a cosy home with only a $3,500 mortgage upon it. One day, about three years ago, a peddler came into his store with a handful of lottery tickets, and Mr. Jones, for the first time in his life bought one. When the drawing came around he found he had won $5,000 and went nearly delirious with joy.

He cleared off the mortgage and bought a magnificent ebony cased grand piano for his daughter.

That night someone left the water running in the bathtub, and along toward morning a section of the parlor ceiling, together with the chandelier, fell on the new piano and smashed it into a hopeless wreck. Three days later the house took fire and was burned to the ground.

Mr. Jones' insurance policy had lapsed a short time before, but he had forgotten in the lottery ticket excitement to renew it. So by making $5,000 in the luckiest way possible, he lost the house and furniture it had taken years of toil to secure.

The word luck is still looking for a comprehensive definition.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Ohio.

TAXATION.

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That a proposition shall be submitted to the electors of this State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1891, to amend Section 2, of Article XII, of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, so that it shall read as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

SECTION 2. Laws may be passed which shall tax by a uniform rule all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise; and all real and personal property according to the true value thereof in money. In addition thereto, laws may be passed taxing rights, privileges, franchises and such other subject matters as the legislature may direct; but burying grounds, public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and other property, may, by general laws, be exempted from taxation; and the value of all property so exempted shall, from time to time, be ascertained and published as may be directed by law.

SECTION 2. At such election, those electors desiring to vote for such amendment may have placed upon their ballots the words "Taxation Amendment—Yes," and those opposed to such amendment may have placed upon their ballots the words "Taxation Amendment—No."

SECTION 3. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1892.

NIAL R. HYSELL,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
WM. VANCE MARQUIS,
President of the Senate.

Adopted April 24, 1891.

DR. FRANCE,
Formerly of New York, now of the France Medical and Surgical Institute, Columbus Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, has decided to visit
TOLEDO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2d.
Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.
The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the state incorporated with a capital of $300,000.

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,
38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession.

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

LOTS FOR $175.00
Small Down Payment---$5 Per Month!
FAIR GROUNDS ADDITION

At No Time in the History of Toledo

Have there been such rare opportunities for the prudent investor to place his money in land as at present. Toledo property is away down at rock bottom figures. Don't fail to take advantage of these prices as they are sure to go up.

Fortunes Have Been Made

By judiciously investing a few dollars in real estate, and the secret of success is often buying in a growing locality at a low figure, and holding the property.

Why Don't You Buy a Home?

You may try to get around it by saying that you cannot afford it. This is nonsense as every one of us spends more money needlessly every month than the small payment required to secure a lot.

Houses Built on Monthly Payments

With a small down payment. If you are worth $5 a month you are good for a lot in Fair Ground Addition. With the New Depot, Electric Street Ry, Water and City Gas this part of the city is bound to go ahead and prices will be from 50 to 100 per cent. higher a year later.

A FRENCH SPY.

Story of an Adventure at Heidleberg Castle.

A Reporter's Unlucky Tumble and His Startling Discovery—Great Treasure in the Castle Dungeons.

A dozen or so reporters were lounging about the Press Club rooms, smoking their corn-cobs and reviewing the day's work when some one proposed that Jack tell us something about his recent trip to Europe. From hints dropped at various times we had surmised that some of his experiences were a little out of the ordinary adventures that befall tourists, but he had never gone into details over any of them. This time, however, he was in a good humor and related the following tale, which is well worth repeating.

"I shall always remember Heidleberg," said he, "for it was there that I came very near ending my trip and also my career. I was one of the chief actors, although through no fault of my own, in a most startling incident and one that was of most vital importance to the German government. It was on account of its being very important that it was never given publicity and so did not get into the newspapers.

"The great castle of Heidleberg, as you all probably know is one of the grandest ruins in Europe and I was bent upon exploring thoroughly its extensive gardens, massive walls, broken towers and wide terraces. And, by the way, the view from these same terraces is a magnificent one, up and down the Neckar valley, over the sleepy old city and with the 'Blue Alsatian Mountains' in the distance. In the morning a guide showed me through the castle hurriedly and I listened with patience to his rapid harangue on the different parts of the old pile and their founders, although it would be hard to make head or tail out of what he said. But in the afternoon I decided to see more of the inside of the castle and I wanted to quietly explore some of the many interesting nooks and corners which the guide had neglected. Accordingly I dispensed with his services and upon entering the Schlosshoff, or castle yard, for the second time that day, I slipped unobserved into a narrow doorway and found myself in one of the great bare rooms forming the basement of the Otto Heinrichs-Bau, as this building is called, in honor of its founder.

"After wandering about for a few minutes in the dim light I suddenly felt the floor give way under me and down I went with a terrific clatter. It seemed to me that I must have fallen about 100 feet, but upon pulling myself together and finding that I was not seriously injured, I discovered that the distance of my tumble was about 20 feet and that I was in a sort of dry well which had been protected only by a temporary plank covering. These rotten boards had broken when I stepped upon them and landed me at the bottom of this hole. The sides were square and the masonry was so tight and smooth as to preclude the possibility of climbing out, consequently I was a prisoner.

"The bottom of this hole was quite dark, but after fumbling in various pockets I found a single match, which furnished enough illumination to settle the fact that I was in a bad predicament, but I also discovered on one side a small square opening into a sort of tunnel. My tumble, however, had taught me a lesson and I preferred to run the risk of being rescued where I was rather than enter this unknown passage without any light. It probably led to deeper dungeons and I would be no better off. After this survey of surroundings I began calling for help, but received no answer and was nearly deafened by the sound of my own voice in such narrow quarters. Previous to this I had not been frightened, but, while resting my lungs, it occurred to me how little chance there was of anybody hearing my shouts. This was in an unfrequented part of the castle and as no one had seen me enter it was not likely that any search would be made for me in this quarter. In fact, as I was traveling alone, no search would be made for me at all and the hotel proprietor would simply think I had jumped a board bill.

"Still some one might possibly enter the basement and I shouted again. While the words were still echoing I heard a sound in the dark passage and almost instantly a bright light flashed in my face from the opening and over the light, which came from a dark lantern, appeared a cocked revolver and a man's face.

"'Monsieur will please not make any more noise,' said the apparition, most politely and with a strong French accent, at the same time he emphasized his request by sighting his gun straight at my head.

"This was rather startling to say the least but on recovering from my astonishment I demanded to know who he was and what he wanted, explaining that I should be very much pleased to have him show me the way out of this infernal dungeon.

"'Come wiz me,' was all he said, and lowering his revolver, started back through the passage, which was so low that he was obliged to stoop. I followed him for about a hundred feet when we emerged into a small room, lighted only by the dark lantern which the strange man now placed on the floor. There were a number of loose stones in this chamber and he motioned me to a seat on one, while he settled down on another. This arrangement left me with the light shining full in my face while he was in the shadow. Still it was not dark enough but that I could see him and you may be sure that I sized him up well. He appeared to be a middle aged man, of ordinary build, with rather pleasant but firm features and a luxriant mustache. Although his clothes were somewhat soiled by contact with the dusty walls I could see that they were of good material and stylish cut.

"'Monsieur, ees surprise to see me?' questioned my companion.

"'Well, rather,' answered I.

"'I weel tell you,' said he, 'ze police would very much like to catch me, and so I stay here out of zare way. You make one, what you call, terrible racket. Zat bring ze keepers, who find you in ze hole and may be zay find me, too!' This was said very quietly and he ended with a shrug of the shoulders.

"'Wht are you going to do about it,' I inquired, 'I don't care anything about you and the police, but you had better show me the way out of here!' This was a sort of a bluff, but as he still held the revolver carelessly in his hand and I was looking down the muzzle, I did not attempt to enforce my demand.

"'Monsieur weel stay wiz me.'

"'How long?'

"'Oh, about two, three days.'

"'The deuce you say, and why will I stay with you two or three days and what are you going to to do with me? I am an American citizen traveling abroad and I don't want to have anything to do with you,' and I again demanded that he take me out into the open air.

"'Ah, monsieur is an American, I thought so,' answered he. 'America ees one great countree, I will go to America some day. I will not hurt you, eef you vill have patience, but it would be too much reesk to lit you go, now zat you have seen me. In a few days I will get avay from here and then you vill be free.' He then evidently dropped all his suspicions of me and put his revolver in his pocket. Then he carefully brushed his clothes and producing his cigar case offered me a Havauna. This I accepted gratefully and he also lighted one, at the same time settling himself as comfortably as possible on the stone. I was evidently in for it and so resigned myself to circumstances and the enjoyment of the cigar, which was a good one, especially for this land of notoriously bad tobacco.

"'Now that I can't get away to do you any harm, and wouldn't betray you if I could, would you mind telling me why you are hiding?' I asked. By this time the cigar had worked its leaven and the stranger became quite talkative, and in his broken English gave the following account of himself:

"'I am a French spy. Zees admeesion would cost me my head eef a German officer should hear it, but I will trust you and tell all. My name ees Paul Laroque. I belong to ze French army and volunteered to make a plan of the big fortress Ehrenbreitstein and ze other fortifications about Coblence. I spik German very well, and by many devices, much trouble and some narrow escape I obtain ze information. Zen I think I will win more honor by also spying into Strassburg. I pretend to be traveling for my health, but ze other day when I arrive in this ceety an officer suspect me and so placed me under arrest. All of the papers I had made out were on my person, so that I would be found out when they searched me. I did not care to go into prison, and as zat dull Dutchman did not watch very close I easily eescaped him. Every part of this old castle is well known to me, as I thought it might some time make a good hiding place, and I soon made my way to this same chamber, without being seen. That was last Monday, and this ees Thursday. I get food at night from a friendly countryman living near here, but it is reesky work. The officers think I am safely over the border by this time and soon they will stop searching for me, then it will be easy to get away. You vil go viz me. Now I vill show you something that I have found since I have been down in dees dark place.'

"So saying he picked up the lantern and led the way into another passage at our right. This was larger than the one by which we had entered and we could both stand upright. On entering another small dark chamber like the first one I observed that it contained two ancient iron bound chests. The Frenchman opened these and disclosed to my astonished eyes the fact that these chests were filled with coin. It was tarnished, to be sure, but the scratch of a knife showed it to be genuine gold. There was also considerable jewelry in one of the boxes.

"'Zare you see ze treasure of ze Palatines,' said Laroque; 'I suppose it was hidden in zees secret dungeons just before the castle was taken by Chamilly in 1693. It was never discover by the victors, and the person who hid it never was able to come back after it. Indeed, the secret may have died wiz some of those who were killed in that terrific siege. That gold is worth two million marks, and we will take our share wiz us when we go.'

"This was a glittering prospect of great wealth for which I was perfectly willing to spend a few days in a dungeon. By consulting our watches we found that it was now late in the evening, so upon our return to the first room, my host, or captor, as you choose to call him, produced some blankets and proposed that we retire. He still seemed suspicious of me and before composing himself for the night, he bound me hand and foot, and I discovered that he was a much stronger man than I had supposed, for he handled me like a baby.

"Notwithstanding this I slept and in the morning the Frenchman released me and served a meager breakfast of cold meat and hard biscuit, with a nip of some good whisky for a relish. The morning was spent pleasantly enough and we devised many plans whereby we might carry off the gold and jewels. In the afternoon he left me alone in the treasure chamber while he finished up his drawings of the German fortifications.

"I had nothing particular to do just at that time and improved the opportunity to examine closer the quarters in which I found myself imprisoned. My investigations soon disclosed the fact that there was but one outlet to the set of underground chambers, and my gentlemanly jailer was between me and the passage. After prying about for about an hour, during which time the French officer was busy in the other chamber, I found an iron ring fastened in the wall at one corner and about three feet from the floor. I did not attach much importance to this at first, but later there flashed in my mind a remark that my guide had made on the previous day about secret doors and stair-cases. This set me to thinking, and I resolved to investigate that ring. The wall appeared solid enough, and there was not the least sign of a door, but I had not fooled with the ring more than five minutes when it loosened somewhat at one of my impatient twists. I gave it another trial and this time it turned completely around, and to my amazement a number of the stones swung inward. Another push and this massive door was open, revealing to me another chamber, apparently about the size of the one I was in, and also perfectly empty.

"I stepped inside, but had no sooner done so than the door closed after me, and I was buried alive between great walls of solid stone.

"It took me some time to realize my terrible situation. I tried to find some means of opening the door which I had just entered, but my efforts were fruitless, and after about two hours' desperate clawing at the pitiless stone I gave up all hope and sank down on the floor in despair. I don't know how long I lay there, but when I roused myself again the thought entered my head that I had not explored this dungeon, and in sheer desperation I started on a tour around the wall. I could not see, but felt my way cautiously, with my hands. The room was larger than it at first appeared, and at the other side I came to an opening about the size of a door.

This opening offered some hope, although it was quite as probable that it led further into the bowels of the mountain as anywhere else.

"It was a forlorn chance, however, and I entered it. A dozen steps brought me to a flight of stairs which were soon mounted and then I followed a narrow tunnel, climbed more stairs and suddenly to my joy and astonishment found myself out in the open air, but it was night and this accounted for the darkness of the last tunnel. A look around showed me that I was in the castle moat near the 'blown up tower,' and had just emerged from a hole in the foundation walls which I had noticed a few days before and had longed to explore. My curiosity was now thoroughly satisfied.

"It did not take me long to find my way out and down the mountain to the Prince Carl hotel, where I had been stopping. I was a sorry looking plight, covered with dirt and cob-webs, but this is a common occurrence with tourists who prowl around the old ruin and did not excite much comment from the sleepy porter.

"The next day I left for Paris, without saying anything about my adventure, for I would not betray the poor spy and I could not bear to stay on the scene of an adventure which came so near proving disastrous to me. I gave many a longing thought to those chests of gold, however.

"I was in Paris a month and had gotten over the nervous strain caused by the excitement of my visit to Heidleberg and was just contemplating a return to the great German castle, when one day while strolling in the beautiful gardens of the Luxembourg, I was accosted by an officer in the glittering uniform of a French colonel. A second look assured me that he was no other than the spy whom I had met under the walls of Heidleberg and you may be sure there was some hearty hand shaking.

"Each plied the other with a hundred questions and we went into a convenient cafe to talk it over. I told him my story and he told me his. It seems that when he discovered that I was missing, he supposed that I had escaped him some way and fearing that I would inform the authorities of his hiding place, he left the castle as soon as night came on.

"He was successful in eluding the guards and arrived safely in Paris the next night. His discoveries and plans of the German fortifications had won for him much praise and he had been promoted. In leaving his underground hiding place, he did not forget to carry away what treasure he could conceal about his person. This ring is part of his plunder, but there is still a fortune under the walls of old Heidleberg."

A Gigantic Wooden Statue.

In the Japanese capital there is a gigantic image of a woman, made of wood and plaster, and dedicated to Hachiman, the god of war. In height it measures 54 feet; the head alone, which is reached by a winding stairway in the interior of the figure, being large enough to comfortably hold 20 persons.

The figure holds a large wooden sword in one hand, the blade of the weapon being 27 feet long, and a ball 12 feet in diameter in the other. Internally the model is fitted up with extraordinary anatomical arrangement which is supposed to represent the different portions of the brain.

A fine view of the country is to be obtained by looking through one of the eyes of the figure. The admission to all parts of the structure is 2 cents.

Japanese tradition says that during the time of the Te-Shomeng rebellion, in 1522, hundreds of cords of wood were piled around it and fired, but that the sacred object itself failed to burn, or to even be scorched by the flames.—Cincinnati Commercial.

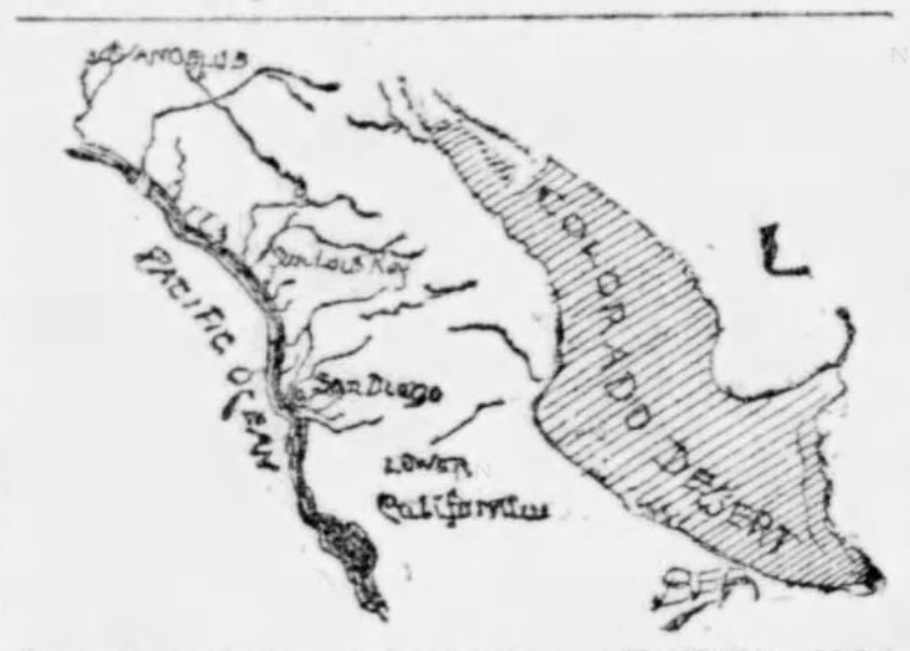
THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

Major Powell Tells the Story of the Great Salton Lake.

The Colorado River Is Refilling the Deep Basin That It Emptied Years Ago—Why This Tract of Land Will Always Be Valueless, Whether Land or Sea—Are the Waters There to Stay?

Water has burst into the desert of Colorado, and you ask me to give some account of this strange phenomenon, to which request I am pleased to reply.

This desolate basin forms a portion of what is known as the Colorado desert. The Gulf of California is a narrow body of water about six hundred miles in length, lying parallel with the Pacific coast from which it is separated by the narrow but mountainous peninsula of California. This gulf not long ago as geologists speak, but many centuries ago as historians speak, extended about two hundred miles further to the northwest, still parallel to the coast. But the gulf itself has been shortened to its present limitations in comparatively modern times. The Colorado rive heads in Fremont Peak, far to the north, and is one of the great streams of the continent. It drains a vast district of county, much of which is comparatively arid, and from this dry region it gathers an enormous body of sand. The mouth of the Colorado is now at the head of the present Gulf of California, but when the gulf extended further northward this mouth was nearly 200 miles below its head. The river charged with sand pouerd an immense load into the Gulf of California, and built a delta out from its mouth, which extending from year to year and century to century, finally constructed a barrier across the narrow gulf, and thus an illuvial dam formed by which the waters were divided into two parts. Then the Colorado found its way into the lower gulf, while the upper portion was cut off from the salt water, and from a constant supply by the Colorado river. Lying in a region of country of great aridity, where there were but two or three inches of rainfall annually, no small streams formed abo ut its margin, so it was a small sea cut off from the gulf without tributaries and with no supply of water other than that falling from infrequent clouds.



MAP OF LOWER CALIFORNIA, SHOWING COLORADO DESERT, WHERE THE LAKES ARE FORMED.

This isolated salt sea extended over an area of about sixteen hundred square miles stretched in a narrow zone from the foot of San Bernardino mountain to the dam at the head of the Gulf of California; so its southern extremity was in the territory of the republic of Mexico. It was a shallow body of water, its greatest depth being less than 300 feet, and as a salt sea it could not remain long. The fierce furnace of a torrid zone poured over its surface blasts of dry air that licked up the waters with great avidity, the evaporation in that region being about one hundred inches annually. Thus the dry air would lower the lake more than eight feet in a year. Under these conditions it could not persist as an isolated sea, for with no supply of water from perennial streams it was soon discharged into the heavens and the bed of the sea became dry land.

This dry land was thus below the level of the sea in its deepest portions from two to three hundred feet, for that was the depth of the old gulf. There is nowhere in the world a more desolate dessert than this old gulf bottom. The winds sweep the arid and desolate land, piling the sand in dunes that travel in sandstorms when the winds blow strong. Much of the bottom of the old lake is destitute of sand but a floor of polished gravel is found, over which the fine dust blows in the fierce winds which here rage, polishing the gravels to such an extent that the gulf's bottom seems to be floored with a mosaic of gems.

The region is utterly treeless and only a few desert plants are found. These desert plants are in the main without foliage. Where moisture is so scarce they cannot afford this element of life in such prodigality as to pour it out from the surface of leaves, so the stems of the plants must perform the breathing function. In more humid lanes gray and brown stems support a luxuriance of green leaves, where the vital functions of the plant are carried on, but here the stems of the plants must perform the assimilation for themselves; so the few plants of the desert present a leafless verdure, the stems themselves being green. There is also but little animal life to be seen. Now and then a wolf strays out into the desert, but horned toads are common and a species of lizard known as the "Gila monster" is sometimes encountered. A little rattlesnake, which is rarely more than 12 or 15 inches in length and has a curious hood on its head, is sometimes observed crawling on the sand.

A geological survey has been made of the region drained by the Colorado. The vast net work of canyons and gorges has been surveyed,, and by methods well known to geologists it has been computed that on an average the country has been washed down and carried away by the Colorado to a depth of one mile from its entire surface. In some places this waste by erosoh has been much less, in others much greater, but the estimated general average is as stated. A long time, centuries of centuries, have passed while this vast process of degredation has been going on. But during this long geologic period a rock a mile in thickness and 250,000 square miles in extent has been beaten into sands by the storms of the region, and the Colorado river has borne them to the sea. The little delta dam at the mouth of the Colorado retains but a very small part of the material which that river has transported. But it began the work before there was a Gulf of California and before the peninsula of California was upheaved so as to form a gulf distinct from the Pacific ocean. This little delta, thirty or forty miles wide and extending across the old gulf, is but a late creation of the indefatigable river, which has been engaged in a like labor for a length of time which cannot be measured in years.

Depressed valleys and basins such as this are practically valueless to man. Gold, silver and other minerals are found in the adjacent mountains and thus mining industries are established, but there is scarcely agricultural land enough to supply with the necessary food the people engaged in mining. Where water can be put upon the land by carrying out the new streams or by sinking wells, agriculture is highly productive. It is semi-tropical region and all the vegetables and fruits proper to such a climate can be here raised successfully. Oranges, lemons and all citric fruit grows here with luxuriance. No more beautiful vineyards can be found in the world. In some parts of the country cotton and sugar cane are raised successfully and now the date palm of Egypt is cultivated and it appears to be far more productive than even in the valleys of the Nile. The Bee.

The BEE will give the people all of the news and advertise their wants. Having a circulation much greater than any other Toledo daily paper it is much the best advertising medium. It secures quicker and better returns. Consult your interests by advertising in the BEE when you want anything or have anything to sell.

Parties advertising in these columns and having the answers addressed in care of THE BEE, will please ask for check to enable them to get their letters, as none will be delivered except on presentation of check. All answers to advertisements should be inclosed in envelopes.

Advertisements of Wants, For Rent, For Sale, Lost, Found, etc., not exceeding four lines (28 words), will be inserted in these columns for 50 cents a week, two weeks $1; one month $2. For one insertion 10 cents, two times 20 cents, three times 30 cents, and four times 40 cents will be charged. Over four lines at proportionate rates, payable in advance. Parties desiring situations will be given three insertions free.

No credit is allowed for advertisements ordered in for a certain number of times and stopped before expiration.

Hassenzahl Goes in To-day

After doing business for over twelve years at 835 Summit street, at which place Messrs. P. Hassenzahl & Son have met with deserved success in their line (Merchant Tailoring). They have, to better their location and get themselves into more commodious quarters, the past year put up a handsome building at 324 Cherry street, between Summit and Superior streets, and to-day are taking possession. Thousands of the readers of the BEE will be pleased to learn of the success of this house, not only in building up a large business in Merchant Tailoring, but in adding another fine structure to the list of improvements in Toledo.

The building is a three story with basement, and makes a fine appearance with a glass front.

The first, or ground floor, is elegantly finished, furnished and arranged to the needs of the Hassenzahls, who will not only keep up their reputation as first class merchant tailors, but with their splendid facilities and determined efforts to please their patrons, they will, it is expected, add many new patrons to their already large list.

FORESTS IN ALASKA.

Almost Impenetrable Jungles of Trees and Underbrush.

Unfortunately, from the point of timber, the Alaska forests, as far as I saw them, are of little value, says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger. The trees grow so thickly together that, so far as the soil is concerned, they starve one another, and good logs would be very rare indeed. One can scarcely imagine from usual forest experience how closely these trees are packed together. I and my wife undertook to walk four miles by an Indian trail through one of these woods to a point where we might head off our vessel. So thick was the mass of vegetation on each side of us, the path being wide enough for us to travel single file only, that we could not have seen a bear ten feet away from us, and only for the rifle carried by the good Presbyterian missionary who piloted us we would not have trusted ourselves amid the jungle of foliage which made up these Alaska forests.

One reason for the dense covering of the land with trees is the favorable conditions for seed germination and the apparent scarcity of seed-eating creatures. The warm temperature given off by the Sea of Japan, which comes up southwesterly to break against Alaska shores, meets the snowy cold of the mountain peaks, condensing the moisture so that the surface of the ground, or indeed anything else, is never absolutely dry, and every seed that falls to the earth has a chance to sprout and grow. In the old Indian village were white spruce 20 feet high growing out of the top of totem poles. These poles are themselves 30 or 40 feet high, and seem to have been selected from the largest trees. They are stripped of their bark, and have carved on them series of likenesses of creatures, real and imaginary, representing the genealogical descent of members of the tribe. It was a curious sight to see the white spruce, like huge Christmas trees, growing from the flat tops of these poles. In some cases the roots of these living trees had split the poles in their descent downward to the earth, into which the roots had in some cases so thoroughly penetrated that should the poles finally rot away the trees would probably on these stilts of roots continue to grow on as trees high up in the atmosphere. Nothing but a climate continually saturated with moisture would permit of seed sprouting and the tree continuing to grow out of the top of a pole in this manner.

Humming birds are said to be vainer than peacocks. We don't know whether this is true or not, but we do know that Smokette cigars are the best 5 cent Havana fillers ever put out by the trade.
